AIRSHIPS READY FOR FLIGHTS ON SQUANTUM FIELD

HARVARD AVIATION FIELD, Squantum, Aug. 29.—Miss Eleonora Sears, Aviator.

Miss Sears, the athlete of feminine society, can add that new title to her already long string, if she wishes.

INVITED TO FLY WITH WILLARD.

She has been invited by Charles F. Willard, the aviator, to learn the sky-flying game and to start in by making flights with him in his Curtiss biplane at the Harvard meet here. Mr. Willard thinks that Miss Sears would have no trouble learning the aviation ropes, so to speak. "Her cool head, nerve and general skill and dexterity in many forms of sport are widely known.

Mr. Willard hopes that Miss Sears will make several flights with him this week, whenever matters are ready and his biplane arrives here.

Harvard Graduate Enters.

Gardiner G. Hubbard, a young Boston architect and graduate of Harvard in the class of 1900, is the latest to announce his intention of flying in the Harvard aviation meet. He entered his monoplane today. He made several successful flights last April over the ice in Cape Breton.

The Kakas Brothers of No. 179 Tremont street, have offered a $250 cup to be raced for in the aboveground control.

It was announced today that all entries had practically closed. It was intended to allow them to remain open until Thursday, but the management finds that they now have all they can possibly handle, and more would crowd the time too closely.

AVIATORS RE ARRIVING.

The final rush of preparation for the big flying meet began today, when an extra force was added to the small army which has been turning the borough, deserted Squantum Point into the official flying ground of the Harvard Aeronautical Society. And while the steam rollers, the pile drivers, the canvasmen and the road and ground finishers are at work, the advance guard of the aviators is drifting into the city.

The first flight of an aeroplane over the fields will probably be made to-morrow by Horace F. Kearney, who will try out the Pfitzner monoplane owned by the Burgess Company. There is a slight possibility that he may make a flight about sundown to-day, but the executive committee will be surprised if he can get his motor tuned up and in place in time to fly to-morrow.

Cromwell Dixon, the boy balloonist, who will drive a dirigible balloon over Boston, has been delayed in making his arrangements and cannot sail over the city of Boston Common until Wednesday, at-

3-MILE SCULL RACE IS WON BY TEN EYCK

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 29.—Another example of the failure of an athlete to "come back" was exemplified today when James A. Ten Eyck, of Syracuse defeated James H. Riley of Saratoga Lake, in a single scull match on Lake Lonely. Ten Eyck's time for the three miles was 23:31, while Riley finished in 23:31 ⅘.

Riley, who is sixty-three years old, challenged any sixty-year-old man for a three-mile race for $500, and Ten Eyck, who is fifty-eight, accepted. Both men were famous oarsmen in their day and have defeated some of the best men. As the result of to-day's race Ten Eyck got away and was never headed, winning by six lengths. After the race Riley admitted that his wind went back on him. Ten Eyck rowed the prettier race of the two and with less effort than Riley, who seemed to do his utmost for the first two miles.

The men went four times over a three-quarter mile course, and Ten Eyck made the turns more graceful, while Riley lost about ten seconds on each turn. Ten Eyck gradually increased his lead, and each time he went by the grand stand he was further away from his main opponent. A big crowd of sporting men witnessed the race.

The victory of Ten Eyck was attributed to the fact that he is five years younger, and for several years has been in active training as the coach of Syracuse University. Riley was in training only four weeks and, while he felt that he had "come back," he failed when the supreme test came. Ten Eyck started with a stroke of thirty-three and Riley twenty-nine. Both finished with twenty-three.

BUTTER MEN DODGE OLEOMARGERINE TAX

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—More than $200,000 has been lost annually for a number of years by the Government by the evasion of the 10 cents a pound tax of colored oleomargerine, according to a report made by International revenue officers. It is estimated that 50 per cent of the big butter dealers are guilty of violating the revenue laws. Special agents have been detailed for investigations in New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Boston and Washington.

PLUMBING COURSE IN CHICAGO SCHOOLS

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—A course in Plumbing in an innovation announced for the approaching new school year by Superintendent Ella Flagg Young. "So many girls know no more about the water and gas used in kitchens than they do fairies and the water-fowl, or the gas is ready to light,' said Mrs. Young, in telling of the new course, 'we want them to know more about these matters from a sanitary viewpoint.'"

WOMEN'S CANE FAD GROWS AT NEWPORT

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 29.—The women's walking cane is numbered among "those who came onck." Three years ago the fashionable women who had the walking cane fad discarded them. Now Mrs. Frederick C. Havemeyer, formerly Mrs. William H. Vreeves, carries a cane both walking and riding. Others are hasten to follow Mrs. Havemeyer's example.

VANDERBILT DOING WELL, WIFE SAYS

Mrs. Craig Biddle passed a comfortable night at Newport Hospital, and is recovering from her recent operation for appendicitis. Mrs. Pembroke Jones, who is slightly ill with typhoid, is doing well.

Walking in his sleep, William C. Pratt stepped out of the second story window of his home at No. 677 Center street, Jamaica Plain, early to-day, and woke up when he landed twenty feet below on the lawn. He received a fracture of the left ankle and was taken to the City Hospital.

ELEONORA SEARS, WHO IS INVITED TO BE AVIATOR

COTTON HITS NEW RECORD IN WILD MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—The highest predictions of the bull leaders were reached in the cotton market to-day when some of the highest price levels since the civil war were attained. Excitement was rampant on the exchange, centering largely in the August option. Shortly before 12 o'clock immediately after twenty cents had been paid for August, W. P. Brown hurled an offer of 1,000,000 bales at that price but the ring. A scene of wild excitement followed and room traders immediately began to sell the late months. However, the underlying strength was such that only moderate declines were forced. The opening price for August was 19.85 to 17.00.

The short interests—the brokers who had sold cotton for August delivery which they did not own, on the expectation of profit in the cotton belt, and a consequent drop in price—were caught three days before the end of the month, and it was imperative that they buy the cotton they had contracted to deliver.

As a result, as soon as the market opened there was a wild scramble for cotton. But there was little to be had. The bull interests, including James A. Patten, William P. Brown, Frank B. Hayne and Eugene Scales, had been gathering in all the August cotton there was in sight.

August cotton, on Saturday, closed at 19.83 cents a pound. The first sale to-day was at 17.45 and within fifteen minutes it had jumped to 17.90. Then the shorts became involved in a scramble for the August option. The greatest excitement ruled on the floor of the exchange. By 10:30 o'clock the high price was reached. Later it slunked off to 18.25.

SUMMON WORKMEN IN CAR GRAFT CASES

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—Ten more subpoenas were issued to-day from the Municipal Court for witnesses in the Illinois Central car frauds' graft cases against Frank B. Harriman, John M. Taylor and Charles L. Kwing. Most of them were for car repairers and workmen, who were wanted to testify of the grafters' methods in tearing good cars to pieces to repair others and then charging for the stolen parts as well as both jobs of repairing.

FAMOUS PALACE OF SALT DESTROYED

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 29.—Salt Palace, a famous tourist resort on Salt Lake, was destroyed by a $25,000 fire early to-day. It was built of salt.

PURE FOOD—FATHER JOHN'S Medicine is a body builder and tonic.

REVOLT STARTED IN KOREA

TOKIO, Aug. 29.—Disorders have broken out in Corea, according to private advices received here to-day, coincident with the formal announcement that the old Hermit Kingdom, independent for more than 4,000 years, is now the Japanese province of Tho Sen.

The annexation has caused great excitement in Japan, though fully expected. Rejoicing is general in radical circles. Socialists have attempted to make capital of Japan's definite pledge of the maintenance of Corea's independence.

The censorship is strictly maintained and the actual relations in the peninsula are not definitely known. It is certain, however, that outbreaks have occured at several points. The army of occupation has been ordered ready for instant service and the patrol of the coast by warships is being continued with vigilance.

AERONAUT CIRCLES THE EIFFEL TOWER

PARIS, Aug. 29.—The most daring aeroplane flight over Paris yet made was accomplished to-day by M. Bedouret, who crossed the city and circled Eiffel Tower twice at a height of 2,450 feet. His feat aroused great excitement.

GIRL DRINKS POISON BEFORE SHOPMATES

LYNN, Aug. 29.—Josephine Abearn, twenty, attempted suicid to-day in the packing room of the Thomas A Tate shoe factory, Oxford street, by drinking carbolic acid. She was taken to the Lynn Hospital, where it is said that she will live. Disappointment in love is given as the cause. The girl lives at No. 288 Chestnut street. She told Helen O'Donnell that life was not worth living any longer and that she was going to end it. A little later, in the presence of a score of girls, she took a bottle from her pocket and swallowed the contents. In a moment the room was in an uproar.

RIOTOUS CAMPERS FINED AT NEWTON

Nine young men, Summer campers near Long Bridge, Newton, appeared in court to-day, six of them in the Newton police court charged with disturbing the peace, and three in the Waitha court charged with the larceny of fruit and vegetables in the town of Weston. Walter H. Dorr, 21; James Mellor, 21; W. S. Remby, 26; Fred Cain, 22; George A. Walker, 21, and Ernest W. Gay, 24, all of Somerville were each fined $10 and costs. Frederick E. O. Pickering, 24, of Somerville and Frederick A. Fraeler, 18, of Somerville and Edward Kirkpatrick, 19, of Everett were charged with larceny had their cases placed on file by Judge Abbott in the Waitha court.

SAYS LABOR DRIVES UP RAILROAD RATES

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—President Ripley of the Santa Fe to-day took the stand in the rate hearing of Western railroads, which was begun before Special Examiner C. N. Brooke of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The Illinois Manufacturers' Association is fighting proposed increases in freight rates. President Ripley declared that the present rates were so low as to be unremunerative. He testified that the high cost of living and of labor made the increase necessary.

ENGINEER IS BADLY BURNED SAVING TRAIN

PITTSBURG, Aug. 29.—Engineer Israel Hall, who here saved train No. 8 of the Fort Wayne division of the Pennsylvania lines, with its load of sleeping passengers, from wreck in the Union station yard to-day, is now on a pipe directly above the throttle blow off, letting loose volumes of steam and hot water. The steam burned Hall but Brandt stuck to his post, with blistering hands and burning face, until he had brought the train to a standstill. By that time he was nearly unconscious, and he fell from the cab window when the train stopped.

CURTISS READY FOR LAKE ERIE FLIGHT

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 29.—Glenn H. Curtiss, who will try to fly over Lake Erie this afternoon from Euclid Beach to Cedar Point and return, arrived here today from Cedar Point, where he went to make preliminary arrangements. He declared he will make a trial flight at Euclid Beach late this afternoon. He said he would also attempt to break the speed and altitude records in to-morrow's flight despite the two $5,000 prizes offered.

PROBATE WILL OF WILLIAM L. RICE

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 29.—The will of Attorney William L. Rice, murdered August 5, was admitted to probate to-day. His estate, estimated at $500,000, is left to his widow, Elizabeth Gautier Rice. She is named executrix. No headway has been made in the murder investigation and it will probably be added to the list of unsolved murders.

GEN. CHARLES R. BRAYTON, BADLY INJURED BY FALL

GEN. BRAYTON, BLIND LEADER, BREAKS A HIP

PROVIDENCE, Aug. 29.—General Charles R. Brayton, often called the "Republican Boss of Rhode Island," met with a painful and serious accident to-day, sustaining a fracture of his left hip. General Brayton is blind and this physical disability caused him to fall. He was in the inner room of his office in the Banigan Building and after answering a telephone call went back to his chair. He miscalculated the distance, and when he sat down struck the edge of it.

The chair rolled back and General Brayton fell to the floor. He was taken to the Rhode Island Hospital and Dr. Martin B. Rodiong says that the Republican leader will be laid up several weeks.

"IT'S GOOD TO BE HOME," SAYS GAYNOR

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—"It's good to be home." Mayor William J. Gaynor expressed himself to-day at his St. James, L. I., home where he was quietly taken yesterday from St. Mary's Hospital, Hoboken, N. J., to recuperate from the shot fired by James J. Gallagher three weeks ago to-morrow. On the porch of his home, Mayor Gaynor to-day gave himself up to the hands of his family. The Gaynor telephone has been cut off and Detective McKettrick, who says he is merely on a vacation, keeps a stiff eye on the gate. Complete rest is the prescription for the Mayor.

SOCIETY BRIDE ENDS LIFE WITH BULLET

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Mrs. Willis B. Troy, twenty-four, bride of a year, and exceptionally pretty, shot and killed herself in her room at No. 5 Montague terrace, in the fashionable Columbia Heights section of Brooklyn to-day. She was the wife of a prominent New York broker and representative of an English biscuiting firm. The cause of the suicide was nervous depression, resulting from a long illness. When Mr. Troy discovered his wife's body he was beside himself with grief, and it is feared he will become insane.

POSSES SEARCH FOR GIANT WOMAN BANDIT

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 29.—Posses today began a search of St. Tammany Parish for a giant woman bandit, who had terrorized the country stealing thousands of dollars from travelers. Her victims say she is six feet three inches tall.

EX-SENATOR DAVIS WELL.

WHEELING, W. Va., Aug. 29.—Stories of the serious illness of ex-United States Senator Henry Gassaway Davis are entirely without foundation, according to a statement made here to-day by Mr. Davis.

BISHOP MAURIEL COMES.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Among the passengers on the Prince Eitel Friedrich, arriving to-day from the West Indies, was Mgr. Mauriel, Bishop of Jermie, Hayti, who is to attend the Eucharistic Congress in Montreal early next month.

WRITS ASKED FOR ARRESTS IN PIER RAID

NARRAGANSETT, Aug. 29.—William E. Arnold, vice-president of the fashionable Narragansett Club, which was raided three weeks ago by young Constable Johnny Cross, was held to-day in $2,000 for trial, on the charge of maintaining a gambling resort, in September 12.

This was the first of two distinct blows that Judge Lewis dealt the social leaders who have been bringing every conceivable pressure to bear to defeat Constable Cross.

CLUBMEN MAY BE ARRESTED.

The other was a decision of Judge Lewis that Constable Cross acted properly in summoning Philip S. P. Randolph, president of the Point Judith Country Club, Edmund H. Robbin and Robert E. Strawbridge, to be present in court to-day, although their testimony was not deposited at this time, on the ground that the constable had reason to believe that the trio were about to skip the State.

The three men did not appear in court. An application was made for writs of attachment for the arrest of the three men. Judge Lewis said he would rake that matter under advisement for a couple of days.

"Dan" Arnold was in court, and he wore an air of confidence before the case was called. He was represented by John J. Fitzgerald, former Mayor of Pawtucket, prominent politically, and a shrewd lawyer. It was regarded here that if anybody could head off the complaint against Arnold, Fitzgerald could. So he demurred to the complaint, alleging several technical reasons why it should be dismissed.

Court Room Well Filled.

Constable Cross, youthful looking, but with a determination upon his face, was present and was represented legally by George H. Huddy, Jr. The court room was well filled but there was an absence of those who frequent the Narragansett and other fine clubs as guests.

Many of the men in court, however, had commissions to phone the result as soon as the judge made his report. This was done by the fact that some of the spectators left the room quickly when Judge Lewis said that the demurrer was dismissed and Arnold was asked to plead to the charge against him.

"Not guilty," replied Arnold in answer to the request to enter a plea.

"I will fix bail in the sum of $2,000," decided Judge Lewis.

Lawyer Fitzgerald then went about fixing up the bond.

In the meantime Constable Cross had been going about the court room as if in search of some one. He whispered to Lawyer Huddy and as a result the names of Mr. Randolph, Mr. Robbin and Mr. Strawbridge were called.

There was no response. The eyes of all those in the room swept the seats carefully but quickly answered.

Demands Clubmen's Arrest.

"I ask," said Lawyer Huddy, "that writs of attachment be issued for the arrest of Philip S. P. Randolph, Edmund H. Robbin and Robert E. Strawbridge. They were summoned by Constable Cross to be here to-day. They have disobeyed the summons."

"Owing to the extraordinary circumstances surrounding this case," replied Judge Lewis, "I shall want a couple of days to think this matter over."

"I think that Mr. Cross was justified in summoning these men because he had reason to think that they were about to leave the State."

Constable Cross brought to the attention of the court that there is a second charge against Arnold. The charge upon which he is to be tried first on September 12 resulted from the constable's raid on the pier that caused such a great sensation and an array of fashionables who had every reason to think that they would be dragged to court as witnesses.

Faces Double Charges.

Dan Arnold got busy and the demurrer that was dismissed to-day was filed. Cross followed this action by serving Arnold with a second writ.

This time he was charged with "keeping a gambling nuisance." He is to have a hearing on this charge on September 12. It is the general belief that Cross brought this charge only as a result of some one else having failed to hold bail.

When the result of to-day's court proceedings became known throughout this place for the first time since the raid of the Narragansett Club leaders in social circles began to get genuinely worried. They had been led to believe that Fitzgerald would be able to stop the proceedings and that the cases would never be tried. This hope was shattered today. One clubman remarked:

To Bare Fier High Life.

"Johnny Cross isn't such a foolish boy as some of the people have been trying to make out. It is noised that he has won every move in this case. He knows what he is about, and he is determined to see this thing to the end."

When the case is called to trial, a number of women will be there as witnesses, if they do not default, as did the trio of Philadelphians last week. The trial of the case is expected to lay bare the high life of the Pier as it has been lived there the lights burned late and game of chance made merry and sad the hours when people with less time and money were asleep.

BOAT BLOWS UP, TWO MEN DYING AT NEWPORT

NEWPORT, Aug. 29.—Two men were fatally injured today by an explosion of a 200-horse power boat, owned by Representative R. Livingstone Beeckman of this city.

The injured men, whose names could not be learned, were the engineer and assistant. They were rushed to Newport Hospital, where it was announced that they had little chance for recovery.

The boat, which is known as the "Ariel," has been in commission five years, and is 110 feet long.

FLOWER BEDS ARE ROBBED BY VANDALS

The well kept lawns and flower beds of the exclusive Dana Hill section, Cambridge, looks to-day as if a cyclone had passed over them, and the streets are strewn with flowers, stalks, roots, leaves and dead blossoms. Incidentally the police are searching for the gang of young vandals responsible for the outrage. The latter showed utter impartiality as they went through the district.

Mrs. James Vorney, of No. 23 Ellsworth avenue, is mourning a large rubber plant. Alexander Ellis, who lives next door, has lost a bed of geraniums. William Balmer, in the next house, misses his bed of asters. Carl Nordstrom, who lives across the street, is minus a fine collection of hydrangeas.

Among the other premises visited were those of Edward Walsh, No. 23 Greenleaf street; D. J. Donovan, No. 1254 Cambridge street, and Mrs. Edward Dana, No. 28 Dana street. The vandals destroyed flower beds at all these places.

EXCAVATORS QUIT WORK.

Seven excavators quit work at the Weld street carbarn to-day. The contractors are at a loss to account for the continued defection of employees on the carbarn job. It is said they have provided everything for the comfort of the strike-breakers, even to beer and saloons. The strikers declared to-day that gradually all the men would go at work would desert the contractors.

ROOSEVELT IN DENVER TO-DAY

DENVER, Aug. 29.—The roar of artillery, booming out a salute of twenty-one guns, usually reserved for a President, greeted Theodore Roosevelt as the train bringing him from Cheyenne entered the city limits of Denver to-day.

It was as the soldier that Denver first greeted the Ex-President. Upon his arrival at 10:40 he entered a carriage and led a parade of his old comrades in arms, the veterans of the Spanish war, who are holding their national reunion here this week. Among them are many of the colonel's regiment, the famous Rough Riders, and there was a strong personal element in the greeting which Mr. Roosevelt received in Denver to-day.

From the Press Club lunch he will go to the Auditorium, where he will address a public meeting in the great hall, which has a seating capacity of over 12,000. This will be followed at 4 o'clock by a talk to the Colorado Legislature, which is sitting in extra session, and at 7 o'clock Mr. Roosevelt will speak before the Spanish war veterans.

SENATOR TEELING WON'T RUN AGAIN

Senator Richard S. Teeling of the Second Suffolk District to-day issued a statement to which he declares that he is not a candidate for renomination. He also brands as false the rumors that he will enter the contest for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Ninth District. In his statement Mr. Teeling declares that his growing law business would prevent him from looking after the interests of his district on Beacon Hill in an adequate manner.

Radicals See Big Gain from Kaiser's Speech.

BERLIN—The Social Democrats to-day are planning to make the most of the Kaiser's Koenigsberg speech, which they characterize "Feudalism's last stand," and their leaders declare that the address will mean a gain of fifty votes for the Radicals in the next Reichstag. With the trend in the bye-elections all in favor of the Socialists, further gains are anticipated not only by the Radical Democrats but by many of their opponents. With forty-one seats already Socialist, fifty more in the Reichstag would give Socialists control and even less of a gain would give them dominance through an alliance with other Radical factions. The downfall of the ministry is one prediction resulting from the address, widely differing factions prophesying the retirement of Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg.

LONDON—Recent researches of Sir William Ramsay and Dr. Gray have made it extremely probable that the so-called "emanation of radium" is a gas which belongs among inert gases such as argon and is a constituent of the air we breathe. HOSPITAL SHIP FOR FISHERMEN RECOMMENDED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Dr. L. L. Williams, surgeon-in-charge at the Marine Hospital at Chelsea, Mass., in his annual report to the Surgeon-General of the Marine Hospitals and Public Health Service, strongly recommends the construction of a hospital ship to follow the fishing fleets of Boston and the New England coast, especially in their Winter cruises to the fishing grounds. This plan applies to Boston and Gloucester fleets especially.

The plans for such a craft are submitted with the report. They show a vessel like the ordinary fishing schooner, only with auxiliary power and with full hospital equipment.

Dr. Williams calls attention to the tremendous loss of life and ships on the New England fishing fleets, owing to failure of prompt medical attention after injuries and during sickness.

He also cites the large monetary losses to crews, captains and owners of vessels, owing to vessels frequently having to cut short their regular cruises in order to hurry to the nearest hospital port with sick or injured seamen.

The idea is taken from the plan followed by the French government. It will require an act of Congress. Congressman Hinson and Lodge, Gloucester districts, particularly will be urged to favor such an act.

MONTENEGRO IS NOW KINGDOM

CETTINJE, Aug. 29.—Montenegro is now formerly elevated to the status of a kingdom, with King Nicholas I. as its ruler.

The members of Parliament gathered in Parliament House, where the Te Deum was sung and proclamations were sent throughout the country announcing the event.

Deputations from all parts of the country, even from Dalmatia, Albania, Old Servia and Italy, many in their native costumes, marched past the palace singing and cheering.

King Nicholas received the various deputations and told them that Montenegro would devote herself solely to the advancement of culture. After the proclamation of the kingdom, the new government buildings were inaugurated in the presence of the representatives of the European powers in the Balkan states. The minister of war presented King Nicholas with a sword in the name of the army.

FRENCH SAYS MONROE DOCTRINE FAILS

PARIS, Aug. 29.—Discussing the work of the Pan-American Congress at Buenos Ayres, the Temps expresses the opinion that American diplomacy has failed to win a signal triumph and that the United States has not succeeded in allaying the distrust of the Latin-American republics which, it says, regard the Monroe doctrine as a double-edged sword, one edge of which is American control by means of the "big stick."

STABLEMAN IS HELD FOR FIRES AT BRIGHTON

Morris O'Keefe, a stableman discharged by A. J. Furbish, the rich Brighton horse owner, was held in $15,000 bail to-day in the Brighton District Court, charged with having set six fires in that section within a month, one of which did $25,000 damage to the Furbush stable and contents last Thursday night when many of the valuable race horses kept there were removed with the greatest difficulty.

The police declare that O'Keefe has confessed that he set the fires alone. They say that he told them that when he drank he had a mania for setting fires. When he was arraigned in court he pleaded guilty and was held for the action of the grand jury.

It is thought that O'Keefe had a confederate, but he declares that he had none. O'Keefe was arrested as a result of information given to the police by Charles F. Savery, a chauffeur employed by Harold Goodnough. Savery saw O'Keefe on Saturday night lurking near a stable in which some of the Furbush horses were kept.

Savery told the police that he saw O'Keefe and another man together and that he followed them some distance. It was after that and along toward midnight Saturday night that Savery and Goodnough appealed to the police for protection and the chauffeur then told his story.

Following this up Patrolman Quinan went out and in the course of an hour had arrested O'Keefe, but he could get no trace of the other man that Savery had seen.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Daniel Sully, the former "Cotton King," arrived from England to-day on the Prince Frederick Wilhelm with his daughter Gladys. Reports from abroad said that Mr. Sully was in London to close up a scheme to control the American cotton market. When asked as to the verity of these reports he said that he never dealed anything. "Certain plans are being formulated on the other side," he said, "but I am not at liberty to talk of what they are. Before sailing for the other side I made a trip through the South and found conditions very stimulating in a most hopeful condition."

PSYCHISTS OF WORLD AWAIT SPIRIT MESSAGE FROM PROF. JAMES

Psychics the world over have their eyes turned toward the land of spirits with the expectation that the late Professor William James of Harvard will speak to them and help lift the veil that shrouds the mysteries beyond the grave.

It is declared that Professor James, who had made careful researches along psychological lines, had promised to speak to his friends after death if such a thing were possible. He believed he received spirit messages himself, from the late Dr. Richard Hodgson of Boston.

Many think that if he should send a message from the spirit world it will be through Mrs. Minnie M. Soule, a medium of Boston, with whom Professor James had numerous sittings while in this life.

Others think that he would choose as his medium of communication Mrs. Leonora E. Piper, the famous Arlington Heights psychic with whom Professor James began his studies on the unseen Kingdom. Mrs. Piper is now in England. She is said to day that she believed that Professor James would try to talk with the spirit world, but that she thought he would prefer to speak through Mrs. Piper.

Expects Spirit Message.

Mrs. Soule declined to-day to give information concerning he sittings with Professor James, but said she was ready to talk of the probability of the spirit of Professor James communicating with him and his colleagues.

"I have no doubt that Dr. James will make every effort to communicate with the world in which we dwell," said Mrs. Soule. "A man with Professor James's remarkable mental development ought to be able to step into the spirit world so as to regulate his conduct with a view of getting into at least satisfactory communication with his friends here.

"Although Professor James has had sittings with me, I believe that he will prefer for the immediate time to communicate with Mrs. Piper, with whom he began his psychical investigations.

"If any intelligence were to impress me claiming to be the spirit of Professor James, I would demand proof of its identity. every spirit is not a professor.

"If there were to tell me something that only Professor James had known, and which, being long forgotten, I knew, I would credit the conclusive evidence. If there also should give me the written contents of some sealed envelope which Professor James had held during his lifetime, without having informed any one of the contents, I should be satisfied.

"I am a believer in scientific investigation in their proper field, and though I have the highest respect for Professor James, and would follow all of his work in the fullest terms, I am obliged to withhold all that transpires in our sittings."

Professor James Convert.

Miss Lillian Whiting, the authoress, who had sittings with Mrs. Piper, to-day said that Professor James was a convert to the theory that spirits could send messages through a medium which he was convinced came from the late Dr. Richard Hodgson.

"To the matter of psychic research," declared Miss Whiting, "Professor James first started as an investigator, with no preconception of evidence as to the genuineness of the unseen with the open mind that scientific investigation requires upon this earth, but with the absence of temperamentally pre-eminently fitted him to judge fairly. This spirituality of mind and temperament is a profound and unique knowledge of the philosophies of the ages, and for his own great work as a physiologist psychologist.

"I believe that it was Dr. Hodgson who first interested Professor James in the remarkable psychic, Mrs. Piper. Dr. Hodgson first turned to Mrs. Piper for the purpose of testing before as a fraud, or a fraud so he thought, more clever than other mediums. In these investigations Professor James was associated with Dr. Hodgson, and both being of open minds and ready to accept the results of evidence, they became convinced of the reality of the remarkable phenomena observed.

Pa.-ists Now 'n Unseen World.

"Professor James now has several sittings with Mrs. Minnie M. Soule of Boston, after the death of Dr. Hodgson, with some striking results. On one occasion Mrs. and Mrs. James, together, had sittings with Mrs. Soule, and, while in a trance, she gave them the details of the communications the impression I still cherish. To my mind that through a favorable writing, unmistakable proof was presented to them of Dr. Hodgson's presence.

"Now that Frederick W. H. Myers, another of the famous work on human personality, who died several years ago, and Dr. Hodgson, who died in 1910, and Professor James, who has just passed away, all three of whom were leaders in lines of mutual interests and close association, are in the unseen world, it is open to legitimate anticipation that some more definite and important message may be given to the world than have hitherto been received.

"In order to be more unequivocally impressive, the communication might come through Mrs. Piper in England, where a group of psychical researches will naturally be interested in it with a view of adding to its phenomenon looking for a new star. I could suggest especial phenomena as a test evidence of personal identity, beyond the observation," and it might be quite possible that a word from Professor James should come through Mrs. Soule.

Dr. Hodgson and Professor James had frequented many tests of spirit communication, and it is believed that if each gave to the other a message, unknown to any one else, which could be the most satisfactory communication to the others, if when received by each of them it should prove to be a perfect reflection possible. If this message was received by the living one, it was to be regarded as indisputable evidence that communication between the living and the spirit world is a reality.

Message May Solve Mystery.

It is also understood that Professor James, before his death, confided messages to certain members of the society which he declared he would send to them from the spirit world if he found communication possible, as his passing is regarded by the members of the society as really a journey to the undiscovered country to solve the mystery of the ages.

During their association Dr. Hodgson and Professor James held many sittings with Mrs. Piper, and it is rumored a strange circumstance that the last sitting published from the pen of Professor James is a letter vouching for the account by Miss Anne Manning Robbins of a series of seances with Mrs. Piper, in which Miss Robbins conversed at length with General Augustus P. Martin, at one time mayor of Boston and at another police commissioner. The reports of these sittings with Mrs. Piper, on the conversations with General Martin, contributed to her publishers, Sherman French & Company, with this letter from Professor James:

"The manuscript which this accompanies and which I recommend herein to your attention is about a companion of mine in psychic researches. I am from a state of doubt and am from through to a faith in human survival in a spiritual order which I have long wished might be true. Here is a genuine record of moral and religious experience, profoundly earnest and sincere. I should think to interest and impress readers who desire to know absolutely what deeper significances on life may hold in store. Truly yours, WILLIAM JAMES."

Talk With "...egon Spirit.

The most famous of all Professor James's experiments was his communications with the spirit of Dr. Hodgson, who died on December 20, 1905. Professor James wrote an account of this interview in the "Proceedings of the American Society for Psychical Research." The conversation was carried on through Mrs. Piper.

Here are some selections from the Richard Hodgson control's utterances from one of two yokes sittings which Professor James had himself:

"Well, well, well, well? Well, well, well, that is it. I am here I am. Good morning, good morning. Alice.

"Mrs. J.—Good morning. Mr. Hodgson.

"Well, have you solved these problems, yet?

"Professor J.—Which problems do you refer to?

"Did you get my messages?

"Professor J.—I got some message about your going to conversation, but did you ever publish that argument that I had? You asked me what I had been doing all these years, and what it amounted to?

"Prof. J.—Yes.

"Well, it has amounted to this—that I have learned by experience that there is more truth than error in what I have been studying.

Following this rather tedious conversation there was a long series of questions and answers in the endeavor to act evidential matter as to Dr. Hodgson's identity. Here is another sample:

"Prof. J.—Why can't you tell me more about the other life?

"That is part of my work. I intend to give you a better idea of this life than I have ever given you.

"Prof. J.—I hope so.

"It is not a vague fantasy, but a reality.

Mrs. J.—Do you wear clothing and live in houses?

Oh! yes, houses but not clothing. No that is absurd.

Incident in Adirondacks.

"R. H." next began to talk something else. Here is an incident which Professor James wrote down at once.

"R. H." next began to talk something else. Here is an incident which Professor James wrote down at once.

Professor J.—Did you recall any incidents about your playing with the children at the Adirondack camp at the Putnam camp?

"Do you remember—what is that name—Elizabeth Putnam? She came and I was sitting in a rocking chair by the fire, reading, crept up behind me, put her hands over my eyes, and said: "Who is it?" And do you remember what my answer was?

"Professor J.—Let me see if you remember as I do.

I said: "Well, it feels like Elizabeth Putnam, but it sounds like—

"Professor J.—I know who you mean.

Professor James then gives this explanation:

"R. H. quite startled me because he reminded me of an incident when I well remembered, one day at breakfast, Miss Putnam had climbed on Hodgson's back and clasped her hands over his eyes, saying, 'Who am I?' To which R. H. laughingly responded, 'It sounds like Marian, but it feels like Henry Bowditch.'"

Now for the facts. Professor James believed he found in his psychical research he could foretell events in the future. A most his last words on the subject of psychical research were:

"Hardly, as yet, has the surface of the facts called 'psychic' begin to be scratched for scientific purposes. It is through following these facts, I am persuaded, that the greatest scientific conquests of the future will be achieved."

There was quarrelling over an oat on Saturday evening, and once the police had been called to quiet them. Yesterday McKenzie was found in the building with a fractured skull, from which he later died at the City Hospital.

MYSTERY OVER THIS $1,265,000 BULLION

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 29.—Two tons of gold and silver bullion, apparently bound for Washington, is coming from the continent from the City of Mexico, and no one at the treasury knows what the shipment means. The bullion is valued at $1,265,000. Mexico says it is interest on large loan that was made secretly years ago by the United States to Mexico. Treasury officials say the United States is not the money-lending business, and is not a creditor of Mexico.

CRIPPEN COOL AS A SUICIDE PACT IS SHOWN

LONDON, Aug. 29.—By Harley Harper's fight for life upon trial, when, with his fiancé companion, Ethel Clare Le Neve, he was arraigned in the Bow Police Court for the murder of his wife, Belle Elmore. The most spectacular incident over of a decade was brought to a head with brief proceedings attended by a handful of privileged people.

The testimony revealed a suicide pact between the prisoners, which it was said had been frustrated by the Scotland Yard men at Montrose, on which they were captured and by inspector Dew.

Crippen maintained, when he was brought to the top, the utmost phlegmatic manner and has become characteristic of him in the last few weeks. Miss Le Neve, pale and worn, was nervous under the eyes of her relatives. Her cold long her hand, but Crippen remained with no sign of emotion, while the arrangement was read. The deemed charges that Crippen put "Dear and Miss Le Neve, Belle Elmore, and further, that Ethel Le Neve, well knowing that the aforesaid Crippen, feloniously did aid, abet, counsel, procure, comfort, assist and maintain the defendant Crippen."

Crowds About the Jail.

Hour before the time set for the hearing the crowd began to gather about the jail. Soon a couple were outnumbered by official detachments of police men stationed as the timing increased. Men, women and even children joined the throng waiting for the chance merely to gain one glimpse of the man and the girl who have created more interest in England than any other prisoners in a generation.

But the crowd was disappointed. The authorities had given strict orders that only those having business in the court should be admitted.

Arthur Newton, Crippen's solicitor, and James R. Watts, the solicitor retained to defend the girl, conferred with their clients before the proceedings, giving them encouragement.

There were many police officers, who have seen much of the prisoners during the stand if necessary, including Inspector Dew of Scotland Yard and Sergeant Mitchell, who went to Canada, and Watterson Stone and Evans, who accompanied Ethel LeNeve back. It was reported that the wardresses might be important testimony at the trial.

Crippen to-day was dressed in a gray dress coat and carried a gray fedora. He was without spectacles and a slightly beard darkened his face.

Girl Dressed in Blue.

Miss LeNeve was gowned in her prison tie color, blue, and heavily veiled. They both advanced to the dock briskly. Assistant Prosecutor Humphreys said that it was proposed to take the evidence of the arrest and asked for a delay of eight days with the Crippen testified to the arrest. Miss LeNeve listened to his intently.

When Dr. Crippen, the husband, Dr. Crippen said Dew, "I said to him. This must be Mr. Robinson." Crippen replied, pretended jumping aboard." Crippen replied, "I thought I would forward his luggage too hopeful."

Dew then introduced a hitherto unreported bit of evidence, a card of one Robinson, a clergyman, on the reverse of which was written a note to Miss LeNeve, in which she alleged to be Crippen's hand.

"I cannot stand the horror I go through every night any longer, and I am going to bright ahead. The journey's end is coming and I am made up my mind to jump overboard tonight.

"I know I've spoiled your life, but some day you may learn to forgive me. Our lives are my last words of love."

As the note was read, Crippen's fellow prisoner collapsed. It was reported that Crippen had been escorted by Captain Kendall of the Montrose, on which the couple fled to Canada.

Note Tells Suicide Plan.

Another card in the same writing was read by the inspector. "Shall we wait till to-night about 10 or 11? If not, what time?"

This, it was inferred, relates to a suicide pact between the couple. Crippen made an explanation of the cards. "Miss LeNeve knew nothing," he said.

"I assure you I know nothing," broke in the girl. I intended writing my sister from Quebec."

Crippen displayed but one moment of emotion in the hearing. When the arraignment had been read it was seen that tears were in his eyes. For an instant he jaw quivered.

Miss LeNeve answered the charge courageously, but her voice was low as she said: "Yes."

Mrs. Jarrod, sister of the girl prisoner, spent much time with her to-day and Walter Le Neve and Mrs. Leslie Nash, her parents, were with her for a long time in the jail. The prisoner was bitterly grieving their stay and after their departure seemed much distraught.

BRAVE WOMAN TELLS HOW SHE CAUGHT THIEF

A young man giving the name of Samuel Small appeared in Boston Municipal Court this morning in charge of attempted burglary after he had been recently trailed through several South End streets by Mrs. Marie Barker, landlady at No. 91 Waltham street.

Mrs. Barker, whose quick and nervy work led to the prisoner's arrest, tells to-day how she became a successful amateur detective so handily. She says:

Shortly before 3 o'clock to the afternoon I heard a noise as though some one was trying to get into my room on the third floor, which he engaged, paying me one dollar. He gave the name

Trapped by Woman.

"He asked me if I had another vacant room as his brother was coming on the next day. I told him I could accommodate him, and showed him a room on the third floor. I gave him two pass keys, one for himself and one for his brother.

"Then I went down stairs with my thirteen-year-old daughter. I heard footsteps on the second floor and then I espied Mr. and Mrs. James Simmons, who live on the second floor of the house. I heard a sound as though someone was getting out of a window. I glanced up at Simmons's door. Still heard that prying sound. I opened the door and said to this man to whom I had let the third floor room. He was in his shirt sleeves, working away at the lock of Simmons's trunk.

"I said: 'What are you doing there?' He stood up, pale and cause toward me. I caught him by the collar of his coat. When he came near he said nothing.

Follows From Her.

"He ran upstairs. I stood there, not knowing what to do. He walked downstairs as though nothing had happened, and walked out the door. I followed him. I followed him all the day. I followed a sound as though someone was getting out of a window. I glanced up at Simmons's door. Still heard that prying sound. I opened the door and said to this man to whom I had let the third floor room. He was in his shirt sleeves, working away at the lock of Simmons's trunk.

CORNER LOTS IN HEAVEN AT $15 APIECE

WAREHAM, Aug. 29.—A bargain sale of corner lots in Heaven caused a riot among the Brava bog-workers at East Wareham. The agent of Paradise was a gaily dressed stranger with plausible manner. He unrolled to the astounded Bravas a multicolored map of the Land Beyond. Some lots were $10. Preferred locations brought $15. A few on the outskirts could be secured for $5.

All business was cash, and the credulous Bravas started to buy. A few five-dollar lots were taken, and the money paid. Just then a Brava with a little more education than his fellow bog-workers came up. He told the would-be purchasers that no one could sell lots in Heaven in that easy fashion.

The Heavenly real estate seller started to run. He was pursued with wrath, but managed to get away with a whole skin.

The Bravas were doubly sure, first to think the stranger started to fleece them, next that it was not possible to buy a home in Heaven so easily. They admitted that the stranger's scale of prices looked good to them.

ELEONORA SEARS IS INVITED TO FLY IN WILLARD PLANE

The grandstand erected on the Squantum aviation field, and Horace Kearney, who will soar in his Pfitzner monoplane.

Grahame-White Due Wednesday.

Clifford B. Harmon is expected to Boston today, and his Farman biplane will follow him. William H. Hilliard, one of the drivers for the Burgess company, is in the city and expects to have his Burgess-Curtis machine on the field to-morrow. The work of setting up the Roe triplane will be started to-day.

Claude Grahame-White, the Englishman who is to use a Blériot machine, will reach Boston on the Cymric Wednesday. He is confident that the machine with which Paulhan won $53,000 at Los Angeles is not out of the running yet, and hopes to fly a good share of the $40,000 in prizes which the Harvard Society has offered. Paulhan defeated Grahame-White in the first great race between aeroplanes. Grahame-White had planned to fly from London to Manchester for a prize of $10,000 offered by a London newspaper, but pressure before he was to fly he went to bed for a short nap.

In the meantime Paulhan had set up his machine and started. Grahame-White's friends went to his hotel and aroused him. Together Mr. Grahame-White and the aid assembled into his machine started after Paulhan, but it was too late and the French man won.

Watched by the World.

The management generally received convincing evidences that all the aviation centres of the world are taking note of the tremendous importance of the approaching event.

Cables were received offering as entrants for the professional events, Morane, who won the recent sensational cross country flight in France and the $20,000 prize; Aubrun, another French aviator, who started on this flight with Morane and finished a close second, and Simon, with high powered Blériot monoplanes. The contest committee has the applications under consideration, but may be unable to accept them on account of the short time left.

Harry S. Harkness, another amateur aviator, telephoned to-day that he had a new speedy tryout of his own machine at Mineola, Long Island, and would, if possible, bring the Harkness biplane here.

Samuel P. Perkins arrived at the field to-day with his full equipment of the Boston aeroplane, including the sixteen-foot monitor ribbed as well as fully outfitted.

The Receiving Committee.

The reception committee appointed to meet the distinguished aviators as they arrive in Boston is composed of Col. A. Sylvester, chairman; James C. Barr and Louis R. Speare and F. W. Martin.

Professor Alfred D. Willson's arrangements are all completed for taking the elevation of the field from the Blue Hill Observatory and the United States Weather Bureau at all times the speed and direction of the wind.

J. Walter Kingg delivered to Professor R. W. Wilson this morning a bottle of air taken by him in the balloon "Boston," saturday at an elevation of 4,200 feet; also his records of instruments made in comparison to those used in the balloon.

The circulation of the AMERICAN is 200,000 more than its next highest competitor, and 75,000 more than all the other evening papers of Boston combined.

SUBWAY HOLDS UP DREADNAUGHTS

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—The Diamond Shoals, that stretched nearly across the East River just north of Governor's Island, is expected to interfere materially with the entrance of the dreadnaughts of the United States navy for the fleet parade of the subway tunnel to Brooklyn is through this rock forbidden dredging of the channel.

This is the problem that confronts the War Department. If the water over the shoal at low tide is too low to admit of the passage of the battleships, then they will not be sent off from entering the Brooklyn Navy Yard from the upper bay.

PRESIDENT TAFT OUTLINES HIS PLATFORM IDEA

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—President Taft's letter to Representative William B. McKinney, outlining the issues of the campaign, has been made public. It is a call upon the members of the Republican party for harmony, a defense of the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill, a comprehensive review of the legislation enacted in the regular and special sessions of Congress, with an outline of other legislation proposed by the party to carry out its promises, and declaration that leading Democrats in the House and Senate have not hesitated to repudiate certain of their party pledges.

The President makes it plain that he has not changed his attitude on tariff revision, but that the difference in the Republican ranks and says that in spite of these the party has never before passed a law more responsible for as much useful and progressive legislation. In closing the letter he says it is of the utmost importance that the coming campaign be one calculated to clear away the clouds of misrepresentation that have clouded the real issues.

Harmony Means Victory.

President Taft's letter follows in part:

"I assume that when this letter is given publicity the lines will be drawn as they are in the House of Representatives, a Republican or a Democratic majority. The question then, will be not what complexion of Republicans one could desire, but whether it is better for the country to have the Republican party control the legislation for the next two years and further redeem its promises, or to enable a Democratic majority in the House either to impose a veto on Republican measures, or to formulate and pass bills to carry out Democratic principles. I can understand how, during the preliminary canvasses just ended to the differences between Republicans; but in the election such differences should be forgotten. Differences within the party were manifested in the two sessions of the present Congress, and yet never in its history has the Republican party passed and become responsible for as much useful and progressive legislation.

"So, while issues will doubtless arise between members of a Republican majority as to the details of further legislation, the party, as a whole, will show itself in the future, as in the past practical and patriotic in subordinating individual opinions in order to secure real progress. Hence it is important that after Republican congressional candidates have been duly and fairly chosen, all Republicans who believe in the party principles as declared in its national platform of 1908 should give the candidates loyal and effective support. If this is done, there will be no doubt of a return of a Republican majority.

Pledges Redeemed.

"The only other alternative is a Democratic majority. It is difficult, very difficult, to state all the principles that the majority of such a majority in its legislative power; and this because its party platforms have presented a variety of planks not fit together consistent, and because in the present Congress leading Democrats in the Senate and House have not hesitated to repudiate certain planks in the platform and to deny their binding character. We may reasonably assume, however, that a Democratic majority in the House would redeem the Republican doctrine of revision as announced in 1908.

"What, therefore, has a Republican who believes in protection but objects to some more or schedules in the present tariff law to hope for from a Democratic majority? Such, if allowed its way, would strip the protective system, and halt business by a threatened revision of the whole tariff on a revenue basis, or if prevented by the Senate from doing that, would merely do nothing.

"Such a legislative program as that set forth in the Republican national platform of 1908 could not be carried out in full by the present Congress. Certainly if all its pledges are executed in one administration it will be within a longer time. The present Congress has not only fulfilled many party pledges but it has by its course set high the standard of party responsibility for future Congresses than ever before in history of American parties. Hereafter those who make such voters by declarations in favor of alluring remedial legislation will be those who stand ready with much more care not to the possibility of its enactment. In the history of the present Congress, the return of a Republican majority with the next Congress may well inspire confidence that the pledges still unredeemed will be in due time redeemed.

Reviews the Promises.

"Let us consider, summarily, the promises made and the legislation enacted by the present Congress. First, and of primary importance, was the promise to revise the tariff in accordance with the rule laid down in the platform, to wit, that the duties imposed should be equal to the difference between the cost of production abroad and that in this country, including a reasonable profit for the domestic manufacturer. A very thorough investigation was made by the Ways and Means Committee of the House, and investigations have been conducted in the Senate. Facts made by the ways and means committee of the House to determine what should be changed and enforce the rule. A reduction was made in 654 numbers and an increase in some 220, and 1150 remained unchanged. The bill was passed by the House, but the Senate added 847 items of increase to decreases was maintained. The Republican platform quotes his message accompanying his signing of the tariff. The bill has been criticised for certain of its rates and schedules. Some of the criticisms are just and some are not. Let us mark and most adjust.

"The truth is that under the old protective idea the only purpose was to make the rates high enough to protect the home industry. The evil of excessive tariff rates, however, enabled itself in the organization of manufacturers to combine and suppress competition, and thus to maintain the prices so as to take advantage of the excess of the tariff rate over the difference between the cost of production abroad and here.

"The Payne tariff bill is the first bill passed by the Republican party in which the purpose of reducing rates to cover the evil has been recognized, and it is the first to a decided step in the right direction and it ought to be accepted as such. Nevertheless, it was a difficult revision, particularly on articles of necessity and on raw materials."

MOTOR TRUCK CONTEST OF THE AMERICAN

By J. C. KERRISON.

The announcement that the BOSTON AMERICAN is to hold a motor truck run to Newburyport and return created quite a sensation in motoring circles. Everyone admits that it is one of the best things that possibly could be done for the advancement of the commercial branch of the motor industry, and that the results of the trip should prove of incalculable value to the automobile world at large. There is not a dealer in Boston but what commends the BOSTON AMERICAN project, and not a manufacturer in New England but what is needed to prove conclusively to the merchants of New England the commercial value of a motor vehicle.

One gentleman, in discussing the matter to-day, said: "The route selected is the best that possibly could have been secured, for the reason that it takes one through a district susceptible to great development of the commercial vehicle idea.

"Each of the cities is what might be termed a manufacturing centre, in which no end of business is accomplished. It is true that the motor truck, either light or heavy, is destined soon to become a powerful factor in every-day business. The sooner the business men are shown that motor trucks can be operated with greater results and at less expense than horse-drawn vehicles, the sooner will the motor vehicle branch of the industry develop to those proportions to which it is destined. The BOSTON AMERICAN is not only entitled to the thanks and praise of the commercial vehicle trade, but likewise to its earnest and active indorsement, for which none will have no question but the minds of the business men of the municipalities and values to be achieved by the method of trucks."

In this morning's mail was received from W. V. Charles of Fall River a letter commending the contest and regretting that his firm could not make an entry, for the reason that it does not build motor trucks. He wrote enthusiastically about the tour and in conclusion tendered to Referee Harry W. Knights the use of the interstate torpedo car for his services on the days of the run. This letter will be turned over to the committee.

Gene Fowle of the Wolf Tavern in Newburyport says that he will take care of all the contestants and passengers on the run, so that there will be no difficulty as regards hotel accommodations.

PASTOR ATTACKS BASEBALL CROWDS

I have no objection to athletics, but when you make a business out of an amusement, when you make a commercial affair out of sport, you have reduced it to an agency that is demoralising and debauching in its influence.

Take baseball, for instance; it is not uncommon for 25,000 men to attend at one game in a great city, and at times as high as 40,000 have been present. Many of those men who go to the game depend on their wives and mothers to take in washing or do other menial work to earn the very money to gain them admission to the games.—The Rev. Charles C. Earle, pastor of Ruggles Street Baptist Church.

'DADDY' BAUER IS OLD-TIME STAGE STAR, IS DYING

Life's curtain is about to ring down on "Daddy" Bauer, old-time Shakespearian and comedy actor, known personally to many Boston actors, managers and others in dramatic lines.

"Daddy" is dying in St. Vincent's Hospital, Staten Island, of cancer of the stomach. He is not afraid of death. When told his days were numbered, he said bravely: "I thank you, doctor, I have lived recently. I am not afraid to go beyond."

His right name is John Granger Bauer, and he was England's leading man. His term "Daddy" was bestowed on him by Sir Henry Irving, one of his best and oldest friends. He was born in London in 1825, was an Oxonian and was trained for the diplomatic service. His conservative family was shocked when he elected the stage. He married the daughter of a London tradesman. She died two years later. They were very happy together. The memory of this belief but lovable wedded life was a fond memory to the old man.

He made his stage debut at historic Drury Lane in 1857, in "The Peoplings." He played in some of the best known stock companies of his time, being equally successful in Shakespearian roles. He came to this country with A. M. Healey and played in "Les Miserables," in Augustin Daly's traveling company in "The Foresters" and with Stuart Robson in "The Henrietta."

The pilgrims include 110 people, touring under the direction of the Columbus Travel Society. Among them are Professor James C. Monaghan of New York, the lecturer and writer, and Mrs. Monaghan; the Rev. James N. Supple of Boston, former State chaplain of Massachusetts Knights of Columbus; Rev. P. A. Cunningham, editor of the Boston Pilot; Mrs. Mary E. Broderick of Jamaica Plain, Miss Helen M. Channing of East Dedham, Miss Julia M. Carey of Chestnut Hill, Mrs. M. McGirr of Brooklyn, Jr., Josephine O'Hien of Dorchester, Miss Ellen A. Regal of Cambridge, Mrs. B. F. Taylor of Brookline.

Gave His Ring to Be Kissed.

On Wednesday the pilgrims assembled in the hall of the consistory at the Vatican, where they were received in audience by Pope Pius X. The pontiff entered the hall accompanied by Mgr. Bisletti, major domo, and Mgr. O'Hern, vice rector of the American College. The pontiff passed round the room, giving his hand to be kissed by each of the pilgrims and speaking a few words now and then.

The Pope was especially gracious and kindly toward the little children in the party, whom he stopped out and sent for and to a place by the throne where they took a little guard of honor—while Father McGivney, as head of the party, had an address, presenting the homage and devotion of the pilgrims. The address, which was translated for the pilgrim by Mgr. O'Hern, was as follows:

"We welcome you, dearly beloved children, who come from distant America to pay homage to and protest your love and fidelity to the vicar of Jesus Christ. May this journey to Rome strengthen more and more in you the feelings which urged you to undertake it.

Praises Work of Society.

"We greet with the greatest pleasure the representatives of the association which bears the name of Christopher Columbus, the second which has come to us during the present month. Spread far and wide over the United States, Canada, Mexico, Cuba, Puerto Rico and the Philippines, it has by its action contributed to the diffusion and preservation of the faith by all those works of which the religion of Christ is a fruitful source.

"We rejoice with you and your fellow associates in the good which you have wrought, and our wish is that under the guidance of your esteemed and loved bishop you may further promote the progress and prosperity of the Catholic faith in your countries."

The pilgrims left Rome Friday for Florence. They will also visit Venice, Milan, Lucerne, Munich and Oberammergau.

Mary E. Donnelly has sold to Mary W. Moore, of the Church Farm Agency, three lots sold for the owner, Frank Cass, his celebrated farm, which has been in the Cass family for half a century, situated on Plains Hill overlooking Lake Winthrop, bordering Washington, Highland and Derwood streets on the South Framingham and Millis electric lines, in the town of Millis, about one hundred and twenty miles from Boston. The property is in the district of Holderness. There is a large fruit orchard and a tract of wood and timber; an imposing three-story house of fourteen rooms, large stock and hay barn, large silo, horse sheds with twenty-five box stalls, cottage plants for house, various outbuildings and a fine macadam road. The farm was sold to Charles E. Cass about 1850 by Ezra Lovell, and has been in the Cass family for sixty years. Charles E. Cass, who built up the farm the herd of Holsteins and Guernseys and other live stock and farm stock. The price paid is not made public, but the property is advertised at $25,000. This is unquestionably the most important real estate transaction that has been consummated in Holliston for many years.

AGED VETERAN DIES OF HEART DISEASE

Lying on the floor of the room in the lodging house at No. 28 High street, Charlestown, Henry B. Green, a veteran of the Civil and Spanish Wars and one of the heroes with Admiral Farragut at the battle of Mobile Bay was found dead by Mrs. Margaret McKillop, the landlady. Death was due to heart disease.

Mr. Green, who was in his sixty-seventh year, retired from the Navy as a chief machinist at the conclusion of the Spanish War after thirty years' service under Uncle Sam.

Snapshots at the "Pols"

There will be a three-cornered fight for the ward committee in Ward 20. James J. Byrne, who was twice a candidate for the City Council and always a loyal supporter of Congressman O'Connell, is going to try and get control of the ward for his old leader and will file a complete ticket. Tom Field Devlin and the "Tip Carts" will fight it out again as in the past.

John F. McCarthy of Ward 16, who was the official dog catcher of the first Fitzgerald administration and who has nearly landed a nomination for the House in the two fights he has made, is in the field again and is pretty nearly become his opponents have put another McCarthy in the fight in what he calls a plain attempt to foil the voters. There are already eight candidates in the field for the two House nominations in Ward 1.

School Committeeman James P. Magenis is the latest to be mentioned for the Republican nomination for Congress in the Tenth district. The latter fight for the Democratic nomination has led the Republicans to believe that there is an excellent chance to win the district and for this reason there will probably be several candidates for the Republican nomination. J. Mitchell Galvin and William R. Willcox and "Picturesque" Robinson of Ward 16 are already after it.

Ex-Alderman Tom Giblin loses the services of his former campaign manager, Oswald Keily, in his fight for Congress in the Ninth district. Keily is after a nomination for the House in Ward 1. He is contesting with Representative Theodore L. Sweeney, the silver-tongued orator of Noddle Island, and Ex-Councilman Joseph A. Hoey.

Ex-Councilman Thomas M. Joyce of Ward 17 will try and wrest a nomination for the House from the Cuneyites in the Tammany ward. He is a good vote getter but if he overthrows Tammany he will accomplish something that has not been witnessed in Ward 17 since the memorable victory of Teddy Glynn, a victory which the antis still love to discuss. To his spare time Joyce is boosting the McNary candidacy for Congress.

Penal Commissioner Fred S. Gore is being mentioned in some circles for the Democratic nomination for the Senate in the Ninth District. While he holds his present job Commissioner Gore will not take any part in politics and it looks as though he would hold it indefinitely.

CONGRESSMAN JOINS IN PRIZE FIGHT CRUSADE

Congressman Frank Plumley of the Second Vermont Congressional District in a letter to the BOSTON AMERICAN says that he is in accord with the movement started by the National League of Lawmakers to stop Prizefighting. Dating his letter from Northfield, Congressman Plumley writes:

"I am heartily in favor of your fight. The most efficient means ordinarily to accomplish the result desired is an aroused and healthy public sentiment, to accomplish which the press is a most potent influence. Hoping for the success of the effort in which you are engaged I remain, etc.,

"Charles F. Flagg, first vice-president of the Portland (Me.) Board of Trade, writes:

Up to National Government.

"The enforcement of present laws depends very largely upon public sentiment and the shaping of this is almost wholly dependent upon the newspapers. Probably any powerful newspaper in its own State could secure the enforcement of existing laws, but many States may have neither the law nor the newspaper, and it seems to me therefore to be effective, a way must be found for the national government to set its foot upon the prizefighting infamy as it did upon the Louisiana lottery.

"Upon the government forbids and stops the advertising before the fight and the publication of the expected after the fight I think the glory of the prize fighter will fade, and his occupation will die a natural death."

Here is another letter on the prizefighting question:

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

I have been noticed practically every night in the BOSTON AMERICAN Columns of letters and other notes pertaining to the fight for the cessation of prizefighting. I am very glad to see that the BOSTON AMERICAN is pulling in very able and effective fight against this evil, and also against gambling in general.

Hoping to see the strongest shoot soon in your to-morrow's edition, I am

PRIZEFIGHTING.

Why are they sanctioned—these brutal prize fights?

Gambling is evil, dishonesty's worse,

Stealing is worse, cheats it be just for breads,

Manslaughter, robbery, stealing men's rights.

Battery—These vices are man's great curse.

Law deals with all these; there struck but why are these primitive beasts sanctioned?

Permitted to continue their ravages?

STRICKEN IN WAGON.

While delivering on Market street, Brighton, today, John Moore, of No. 29 Mt. Vernon street, was stricken by a fit and fell to the ground, receiving a wound over the right eye. He was cared at Police Station No. 14 and then sent home in an ambulance.

$6,750,000 U. S. REVENUE JUMP

The corporation tax which was not in effect last year is responsible for all but $1,000,000 of the increase. The receipts from spirits was $7,674,329; tobacco, $1,841,554; fermented liquors $7,191,671; miscellaneous, $2,848,448, of which $6,705,618 was derived from the corporation tax.

NEW FOREST FIRE SPREADS IN MONTANA

HELENA, Mont., Aug. 29.—Rapidly gaining ground, a new forest fire today is threatening the Nine River company. It sprang from the Beaver Head fire, according to officers received here today when that plague was thought under control. Other reports show little change in the general situation, however. The Northwest has taken new hope.

BISHOP SAYS DEAD FRIEND CAME TO HIM

STERLING JUNCTION, Aug. 29.—Bishop Willard F. Mallalieu of the Methodist Episcopal Church, while speaking at a camp meeting here, told of having a vision or his bedside in which there appeared a local physician, who died on August 18.

"Dr. Pickles died on Thursday, and on Saturday I saw him in a vision. I lifted my head that morning and there he sat beside my bed," said Bishop Mallalieu.

"John, where did you come from? I asked, and he replied: 'Read the last of the fifth chapter of Revelations, and you will get your answer.'"

The verses of the Revelations referred to are: "And one of the elders answered, saying unto me: 'What are these which are arrayed in white robes and whence came they?' And I said unto him: 'Sir, thou knowest.' And he said to me: 'These are they which came out of great tribulation, and he made them white in the blood of the lamb.'

"Therefore are they before the throne of God and serve him day and night in his temple: and he that sitteth on the throne shall dwell among them."

FATALLY INJURED BY BROCKTON RUNAWAY

BROCKTON, Aug. 29.—As a result of a runaway accident here, W. Scott Flanders, of No. 15 Hardy avenue, a night nurse at the Ether-Spray drug store on Main street, is dying at the Brockton Hospital. Flanders was standing near a telegraph pole on Main street waiting for a car, as the horse attached to a small wagon of the Taunton Lumber Company, had taken fright and ran down Main street, swinging on Main street in the direction of Flanders. As the latter turned on to the sidewalk where Flanders stood, seeking the free wheel of the wagon on the telegraph pole, Flanders was knocked into a sitting position between the front wheel of the wagon and directly behind the horse's heels. The horse finding the road no further began to kick, terrifying all his heavy hoof, striking Flanders.

LOCATES BROTHERS AFTER LONG SEARCH

LYNN, Aug. 29.—After a search of twelve years for his two brothers, James Scanlon, foreman for the Shenango Bread Coal Company, has located them, and a reunion will take place as soon as they arrive here. Robert, twenty-three, is coming from Arcadia, S. Y., and Charles, twenty-one, is on his way from New Castle, Wyoming. Both are farmers. The separation occurred ten years ago at the death of Scanlon's parents.

FERRARI WAS KILLED BY POOL CUE BLOW

That the death of Raphaelle Ferrari of High street, Dedham, was caused directly by a blow from a pool cue delivered by Michael Columbo, was the finding Judge Hutchins of the Dedham District Court filed with the clerk of the Norfolk Superior Court yesterday. Ferrari was killed in front of John Cavanaugh's pool parlor on the evening of June 24. He had an argument with Columbo which resulted in the latter striking him with the cue. Columbo is now awaiting the action of the grand jury on a manslaughter charge.

The Kind You Have Always Bought.

THIS is the caution applied to the public announcement of Castoria that has been manufactured under the supervision of Chas. H. Fletcher for over 30 years—the genuine Castoria. We respectfully call the attention of fathers and mothers when purchasing Castoria to see that the wrapper bears his signature in black. When the wrapper is removed the same signature appears on both sides of the bottle in red. Parents who have used Castoria for their little ones in the past years need no warning against counterfeits and imitations, but our present duty is to call the attention of the younger generation to the great danger of introducing into their families spurious medicines.

It is to be regretted that there are people who are now engaged in the nefarious business of putting up and selling all sorts of substitutes, or what should more properly be termed conterfeits, for medicinal preparations not only for adults, but worse yet, for children's medicines. It therefore devolves on the mother to scrutinize closely what she gives her child. Adults can do that for themselves but the child has to rely on the mother's watchfulness.

By STANLEY WILLCOX.

Readville trotting park was the Sunday Mecca of New England yesterday, and from early morning until twilight probably 5,000 persons passed through the gates of the Providence track. Visiting horsemen arrived by every train and trolley and a glimpse of the country's greatest light harness horses was an irresistable attraction. Tourists motored from all parts of New England, and the trains and trolleys had an immense patronage.

In the opinion of many horsemen the large Sunday gathering was the augury of a splendid attendance for the coming four days' race meeting, beginning on Tuesday, and the fact was well borne home to Andy Welch by his well-wishers.

The quarters of the champion Uhlan, 1:58⅘, was the popular location of the day, and hundreds visited his well-equipped stall, among those lessed by Millard Drinkwater. But The Harvester, 2:02, gave the champion a close run for the popular bid, especially in the day, the great son of Walnut Hall being sheltered in the stable of Ed. Bither.

Charley Tanner, the driver and trainer of Uhlan, brought out his famous charge for three brushing miles early in the morning. Tanner stepped the first in 2:31, the second in 2:20, and the third in 2:12. He reached the wire with ease, and no attempt was made for speed in the final half or quarter.

Pop Geers Arrives.

"There is nothing to announce about Uhlan's trial until Mr. Billings makes it," said Tanner to the AMERICAN. "I shall drive the runner, when Mr. Billings makes the record trial to wagon, and that is all I know."

E. F. Geers, the master reinsman and Frank G. Jones, the well known turf magnate of Memphis, Tenn., motored out to Readville about 1 o'clock. The faithful Lafe Shafer had everything in readiness at the Geers stable, and in the twinkle of an eyelash did some exercise any of his horses. He had a fine motor ride here from Hartford, said the great reinsman, and then he relapsed into his customary silence as profound as that which surrounds the souls of the Capulets.

The busy man of the day at Readville was W. C. Andrews, driver of the line Hamburg Belle, 2:01¾, who arrived at the track in the early morning and lost no time in getting down to work. The man driving many Margin, 2:08¾, winner of the $10,000 Massachusetts Stake at Readville last year, whom he worked at Cleveland in 2:04¾, and at New York in 2:09½, sent a half in 1:02, and stirred the railbirds by coming home under a beautiful drive, stepping the final quarter in 29½ seconds.

Andrews then brought out the Southern filly, Eva Tangent, 2:06¾, purchased by his patrons, Messrs Robert Goelet and John R. Townsend of New York, and stepped her a first half in 1:05¾. Eva Tanenent is down for the American Horse Breeders' Futurity on Wednesday. She has trailed in 2:09¾.

Walter Cox was an early arrival with the trotters Bisa Watts, 2:04¾, Lucy Maid, 2:04¾, and Betsey G., and the pacers Alfred Wilson, Earl Jay, 2:09¼, Emily Isle, Sarah Ann Patch and Ernest. He stepped Ernest in 2:09¼, who was driven in 1:04½, and final quarter in thirty seconds.

Big Steeds in Stable.

Thomas W. Murphy, the wizard of the sulky and Mr. Murphy are here, and the string of horses owned by the veteran Roosevelt, his Derby candidate; Native Belle (2), 2:07¾, Lady Vincent, Captain George, Belle Maid and the pacers Ella Ambulator and Baron Whips, and a carload of lesser lights.

The horses came early, with The Harvester, 2:02, having had an excellent shipment and his stall a popular gathering place. That the son of Walnut Hall will step over the 2:01 mark, and track permitting, seems to be the almost unanimous opinion of the horsemen.

It leaked out during the day that Walter Cox was not satisfied with the length of the Empire track in New York, after Colonel E. had stepped his record breaking heats in 2:07¾, and 2:07¾, and that Trainer K. Devereaux measured the track and found the distance correct, with the quarter poles in proper position. Ben McDonald's string, in charge of Jesse Smith, Ed Geers' driver, Walter Cox's quarters lack of the grand stand, and can be seen from the road. Lou Dillon, 2:02¼, the futurity candidate; Lady Stately, 2:08¾; Aquin, 2:08½; Justo, 2:04¾; Henry Winter and Miss Burbank, 2:06, and the three-year-old pacer Baroness Evelyn (2), 2:14¾.

Hallworthy, 2:06¼, is the popular favorite over the Massachusetts Stake on Thursday. Over the Empire track, which was cupped and tiring, he was able to step to his record, beating by a second and a half his best performance, for last trials at Grand Rapids, Detroit, Kalamazoo and Cleveland. Everyone about predicts that the Massachusetts will be the banner trotting race of the year.

The most cheerful optimism prevails in Jimmy Gatcomb's camp, and he right expects to land the trotting Derby with Major Wellington, 2:04¾, who has stepped the Readville track in 2:09¾, as stated in the AMERICAN.

Hard Luck Major.

But the boys who have followed the Major over the New England twice-rounds to their sorrow, in the early days last year especially, why he was as good as 8 to 1 in the pools, he their doubts, for nothing but the hardest kind of luck has ever attended the Major. "If the Major could lose the trotting Derby in no other way I believe he would fall down," said one pallbrid, for the hard luck horse of New England is certainly Wellington."

The mile of General H., 2:07½, over in New York, two seconds faster than he has ever stepped before, makes him a strong favorite for the 2:10 trot on Thursday.

Miss Lotta Crabtree, one of the family of friends motored out to Readville during the day for a glimpse of Sonoma Girl, 2:04¾, who is a popular Derby candidate.

Mederine has overtaken Jimmy Carpenter for Baron Atwelecz, 2:09½, his good trotting son of Baron Wilkes, and with the distemper and is a doubtful starter in the 2:16 trot, where he was expected to be a strong one, as he has stepped a mile at Readville in 2:12, He was also named to start at Hartford and Syracuse.

SPEAKER MAKES GAIN ON COBB

The Red Sox boosted their batting figures during the past week at the expenses of the Browns and the Naps. Tris Speaker has been particularly mad and got up closer to Ty Cobb for the highest honors. Lajoie, who stands second to the Tiger slugger fell off quite a little.

Tris jumped from .336 to .342, and is now only twenty points behind the great Georgian. Joe Jackson and Rogers Peach is slumping a bit on the eastern trip.

Tubb still holds sway at the top of the ladder, but his average has increased and Speaker and Lajoie have anything to say about it for the next few months. Here are the leading batters in each league are:

GREAT ICE SKATER DIES IN CANADA

ST. JOHN, N. B., Aug. 29.—Hugh J. McCormick, ex-champion skater of the world, died here after a long illness, following critical operations. The internal trouble performed here and in New York. McCormick defeated Joseph Donoghue for skater late in the Winter of 1883. Fresh from his conquest of the supposed best [illegible] Irish performance leaped to him and he was showered with honors.

After defeating many competitors here McCormick went to New York where he quite upset the equilibrium of the sporting world by defeating Donoghue and left. He later defeated William Whidden, who had issued a challenge to all comers.

In 1890 he defeated Axel Paulsen, then considered the speed skater of the world, in Minneapolis.

In 1892 he went to Norway to meet Harold Haaken, and under adverse conditions defeated him. His fastest mile, done in 2:58, was skated here.

KIVIAT MAKES NEW TRACK RECORD

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Abel Kiviat of the Irish-American Athletic Club ran the fastest mile ever travelled by a runner on a cinder path track in the world at the New York County Ancient Order of Hibernians. The young athletes from Staten Island covered the distance in 4:20 2-5 seconds, which took 1 4-5 seconds from the mark set up by Wilson Howell, the best collegiate champion, last week. The latter has been beaten twice by Kiviat, and in a fall stride in one of the prettiest races that has been seen here in a long time. Frost went under the track record, but he only covered the distance in 4 minutes 29 4-5 seconds.

With six straight victories to their credit and the Browns and Naps laid away cold, the Red Sox this afternoon and this week will be given an opportunity to compare the playing ability of the men who were exchanged in the recent deal.

Smith will arrive to-day, and will be in the game during the latter part of the week, a chance that he will play against Chicago in one of the three games.

The batting department has taken a boost during the past week, and if Manager Carrigan's men have surprised the fans by the way they knocked the Browns and Naps' pitchers out of the box, Harry Hooper has been batting better than ever the last few days, and nearly every game last week developed into a slugging match with the home team on the long end.

The question of pitchers, while at all times a serious one, does not look so bad as it did a week ago. The recent additions to the pitching staff seem to have just what the team needs, and the older pitchers have taken a brace.

The probabilities are that in to-day's game two left handers will oppose each other, "Doc" White being first choice for Chicago, and Karger expected on the rubber for Boston.

Manager Donovan wants to make a clean sweep of the White Sox series, and go to New York Thursday with an unmarred record. Accordingly the team is going in for record under the best possible auspices, and it wouldn't be at all surprising to see the something to the White Sox in the combs three games.

The Doves are at Cincinnati to-day for their two days' series against the Reds, and with the expectations of at least breaking even. The recent defeats of the Boston team in St. Louis put the team still further down in the cellar, but at the same time Fred Lake's men have a chance to pull up if they win some of the coming contests. It is even said that many expect to see the Doves out of the last place by the middle of next week. The strongest possible lineup will be put into the field by the visitors.

Horse and Speedway Notes

W. F. Price of the Metropolitan Driving Club has sold the well-known matinee pacer Dean Swift, 2:12¾, at private sale. Dean Swift has paced a half mile upon a straight-away course in 1:02¾, and for a number of years has been one of the most popular horses raced in the "speed" matinees upon the Charles River Speedway. He was formerly owned by Dr. J. D. Thompson of Newton, who drove him with marked success.

* * *

A. J. Furbush has the sympathy of a host of horsemen from every part of New England in the misfortune which has befallen him. While the numerous fires about the Furbush estate are apparently inspired by someone with a mania for arson, it will go exceedingly hard with the culprits if discovered.

* * *

Jimmy O'Donnell leaves the city to-night for Sherbrooke, Que., where he will drive Bonnie Bells, 2:17¼, in the 2:20 stake at the annual fair in the Canadian town. Jimmy should deliver the goods with little trouble. He feels quite happy over the fact of driving the five-old trotting mare Bonnie Bells, 2:18¾, in 2:16, with a half in 1:06. The mare has been very promising but has suffered from a splint which at from time to time throws her out of training.

* * *

"I have seen all kinds of show horses in my time, both in this country and across the water," said Dr. F. J. Cronon to the AMERICAN, "but I have never seen anything that approaches the stable of Judge Moore, Brockton, for show horses. It is a rare privilege to visit the Moore stable which contains 185 horses, the finest collection of heavy harness animals ever gathered together in this country. George Chipchase has them in letter perfect."

* * *

Jack Trout observed his seventy-second birthday yesterday at the clubhouse upon the Charles River Speedway. The grand old veteran of the sulky plaits received many hearty congratulations, and James E. Fitzgerld, "the Mayor of East Boston," and a number of Jack's friends drove out to wish him the best returns of the day. Jack is only seventy-two years young, and for many a day to come.

* * *

Jack Dorey has an excellent entry for the Barnstable Fair races which begin to-morrow. The Fellsway boys will turn out a very good number of horses for back down to the Cape town.

* * *

There continue to come across some very startling remarks about some of Ivy awards at that Magnolia horse show. Harry, the Doctor and Sir Joseph seem very far apart, and when they meet again at the Whitney Farm, Oshkosh, there will be some rare good sport.

* * *

The Hills Grove entries close on Tuesday night, and a banner entry seems already assured for the meeting September 5-6, opening.

* * *

The Fellsway Driving Club announces a $100 purse for a free-for-all race and two races for $100 purses, classification to be made later, at the Labor Day matinee at Combination Park, Medford.

* * *

Fred Sanborn has an excellent offer for his trotter Billy J., 2:17¼, conditional upon his showing ability to step three heats in 2:18 or better. The well-known Fellsway trotter should be able to turn the trick all right.

* * *

George W. Leavitt says that Sir Todd 2:10¼, was in very poor condition upon his arrival across the water, and that the former favorite Boston stallion is only sufficiently well to be considered third in the race for the Austrian championship.

NEW AMATEUR RECORD FOR ROAD CYCLING

LONDON, Aug. 29.—The world's amateur twelve-hour road record for cycling was beaten yesterday and last night by F. C. Gilbert who in that time covered almost 212 miles. He did one hundred miles in 5 hours 39 minutes.

$40,000 BID FOR STAR OF GRAND CIRCUIT RACES

What is probably the most important deal in horseflesh the country has known since the time J. Malcolm Forbes of Milton, paid the late United States Senator Leland Stanford, of Palo Alto Farm, California, $125,000 for the stallion Arion 2:07½, is now pending in Boston, with every assurance that the transaction will be completed before the close of the week.

The horse in demand is Colorado E., 2:07½, the marvelous three-year old son of The Bondsman, whose record flight in the recent Matron Stake at New York in 2:07½ and 2:07¾, is the sensation of the hour in the trotting circles. Colorado E. is the favorite for the trotting division of the American Horse Breeders Futurity, which which he is scored on Wednesday at Readville, when many horsemen believe he will beat the 3-year old record of Gen. Watts 2:06¾.

The bidder for the famous three-year old is William G. Bradley, the owner of Ardmore Farm, Grafton, Mass., the home of the grand New England sire Bingen 2:06¾, and the equally popular dead sire Todd 2:14¾. The owner of Colorado E. is George H. Ketcham of Denver, Col.

$40,000 Bid for Horse.

A meeting between the bidder and the owner has already been arranged in this city, after Wednesday's futurity race.

While the price for Colorado E. is said a matter to be discussed at the coming conference, it is stated that Mr. Bradley's final bid was in the neighborhood of $40,000, and that Mr. Ketcham has set $50,000 as the price for the stallion.

Jim Moore, the well known veteran of the sulky, of Lexington, Ky., when approached as to the sale of the Bingen sire extremely reluctant to comment upon the matter, but regret exceedingly that publicity should be given this matter before the proper bow of Mr. Ketchum and Mr. Bradley," said the Blue Grass horseman to the AMERICAN.

"In my judgment Colorado E. is the most wonderful 3-year old the world has known, and will this year, barring accident, trot in 2:04 before the snow flies.

"The stallion is a greater horse and of greater promise than was either Thomas Hal, or The Harvester 2:02 when 3 year olds, and he is my very worth $60,000 but every penny of $75,000.

Paper All Drawn Up.

"You may refrain me from commenting upon the proposed sale. It is a matter in which my patron, Mr. Ketchum, is also concerned, and it would be highly improper for me to intrude an opinion as to the proposed transaction. We bred Colorado E. in the Blue Grass Association and I believe the progress resulting from the sale will be a famous one."

It must not be assumed that this large transaction in horse flesh has consummated, and a number of commissions are in the hands of bidders for the purpose of effect the sale of Colorado E. For the commission upon the $40,000 horse will not to be sneezed at.

Colorado E. has no job, however, from all appearances has already the matter of the sale away whipped into shape, and is stepping at an unlown hotel. He said to the AMERICAN, that the sale as agreement for the sale have already been drafted, and the only thing now to be done is the signing of a successful transaction being reached in such a case. Messrs. Estabrook and Bradley reach Boston.

COLE MAY BEAT FORD FOR PRIZE

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Two new comers in the major leagues are likely this year to head their respective pitching ranks—Russell Ford of the New York Highlanders, and Cole of the Chicago Cubs. Ford is after his nineteenth victory of the year. He had lost but six games all year.

Cole's record is even more glittering—seventeen victories and only three defeats, a percentage of .850. Cole pitched a few games at the fag end of last season, but is really counted a 1910 product. New York fans do not get but a chance to see Cole in action, for Manager Chance has been a chary of the youngster against the Giants in the Polo Grounds. Cole's work against the Giants in Chicago, when he held them scoreless for nine innings, has hoped that Chance will pitch him when the Cubs meet the Giants in New York.

Not in many seasons have two young pitchers won "fame" as those of Cole and Barger of Brooklyn, Drucke of the Giants, Benz of the Cincinnati Reds, Cleveland and Vaughan of the Highlanders have all done great work, but their records are not short of those of the two "finds." Ritter has signed a contract for $10,000. It is predicted, if put on the block.

FAST BANTAM BOXER IS COMING EAST

Johnny Carroll, the San Francisco bantamweight, is on his way East and will probably arrive in New York some time this week. Carroll says that he has been promised a match with Jimmy Walsh and is coming here with that purpose in view. Bill Beecher, the former Worcester boy writing from San Francisco, says he has seen Carroll work and that he ever has had his fifty when he meets Jack (con rough) Dillon, the boy that California are predicting will fit Ritchie Mitchell or Jimmy Britt. Jack Hogan wins quickly. He is looked upon as the greatest find in the bantam line in many moons time. The bout is a four-round contest and Scaler is confident that he will be returned a winner.

Those wallop eaters Tommie Quill of Brockton, and the most popular all-round citizens of the big Shoe City, who is as well known down there as the biggest kick manufacturer, and Young Loughrey the fiery Quaker, will battle for the ringside medal at the Armory A. A. to-morrow night.

And it will be a rough mess. These boys have already met several times, and Loughrey is one of the few boys who have gained a decision over Tommy in fact he got a couple and then Tommy beat him, so this bout is all important to the Bay State mitt tosser, as he will endeavor to put his rival out of business so that he can have a clear field to get at some of those welterweight aspirants who think they have some claim to the title.

The winner will probably be matched with Leo Houck, who gave Harry Lewis the fight of his life last week by beating him good and plenty, and when the latter comes off it will be a sketch worth the price of admission.

Tommy is a clever, slashing mixer and scientific. It's just boring in at close quarters and sneaking punches, wrestling and mauling till one or the other says quit.

No stalling in this engagement. They are going to put on a fight for their very lives. Loughrey's best point is to keep in close and work the body. Tommy, while Quill likes it too but is always ready with a short arm jolt when his rival is careless.

There is always a big delegation that follows the lead of Tommy Quill and we will hand to back the favorite as far as the ringside money is laid, and figure that Tommy will be the big choice.

The preliminaries should be good, as they will be between some of the best boys developed in the many lighter clubs of this section who are promoting.

BIG SCRAP MEETING IN NATIONAL LEAGUE

There is sure to be the regular annual scrap in the National League about the middle of September, when Manager Thomas Joseph Lynch, the present incumbent, will be relieved of his position, according to the two Chariezs Comiskeys, Stanley Robison, owner of the Cardinals, also is an authority that he will be relieved by Manager Murphy-Taft interests to Quakertown. Frank "Wildcat" Farrell, Harry Von Der Horst and John T. Brush have a controlling interest in the National League administration. The chances are that all four will be present at the meeting, but that will be sufficient to return Thomas Joseph to office.

BEARCAT TEAM FOR NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP

By Tad.

Now that Stan Crane and Allen Sangree and the rest of those diamond experts have picked out the best teams for the national game that ought to be picked, let us get together, pull the rockers up near the fireplace and get busy ourselves. Those birds think they have the jammy nine—just look at this:

Bill Squires pitcher. The man who has the fastest drop in the world.

John D. Rockefeller first base. Greatest scooper in the business, bar none. He scoops them in at about the rate of 18,000 a minute and never misses one.

Jack O'Brien second base. Best doubler in the business. Doubled the public with Berger and Burns, great team mates.

Harry Pulton third base. They don't go so fast that Pulnk can't get his hands on them.

Billy Elmer right field. Bill covers a bit of turf himself. Went from New York to Los Angeles without even touching the ground.

Joe Gilhooley shortstop. Joe never missed anything in his life. Anything that ever came anywhere near him he got.

Ad Wolgast centre field. We need him at the plate. The lads on the team are bad. He'll wait forever unless they come the way he wants them to.

Jack Johnson and Jim Corbett coachers. Florrie Barrett, manager.

Mr. J. Woodman, manager of Tom Langford, has repented a bit. Joe says now that he didn't mean to offend Mr. Delaney. He writes as follows:

"My Dear Tad:—

"I see some little "boost" for me in today's AMERICAN. I did not think I was going to bring about any argument with you or any other sporting writer when I sent out that little statement. I simply wanted to call the attention of the sporting writers to the fact that Delaney was trying to throw it into Langford. I did not wish to call any one's attention to the handler," as I think he is an experienced and, no doubt, a good one, but Langford has been heard of, I trust you will not be heard on Langford for any of "my" errors" in the past. Langford is, and always has been, willing to fight any one that the club managers would get for him, and I thought that Sam had explained to you why he did not fight Jim Bridgeford on August 10. Trusting that my little story has not made any breach in our friendship, I am, sincerely yours,

JOE WOODMAN.

CRACK FIELD OF WINNERS IN FIVE-MILE RACE

The five-mile race to be held at the New England track and field championships on the grounds of the Norwood Press Club, at Norwood, Saturday, September 10, 1910, promises to be one of the best races ever held in New England. Among those who are to compete are charles B. Loree, the little colored wonder of Fall River, who has won almost all the races in his section; James H. Maloney of the St. Stephen's Temperance Society of Worcester, the long-mile New England amateur champion, who has yet to meet defeat; Michael Norris of the Brookline Gymnasium A. A., who was the event last year; Clarence DeMar of the North Dorchester A. A., who was second in the Boston Athletic Association Marathon race of 1910, and was also the winner of the Armory A. A. ten-mile handicap race on February 22, 1910, and who has been well up in all the local races this season.

Ray Willard of the Providence A. C., who is recognized as the five-mile champion of Rhode Island; Joe Silva on the south side of R. I., a local favorite, who romped away from the field at the Sacred Heart picnic on Rose Island on August 20, 1910; William J. Hackett of the Brookline Gymnasium A. A., who won the Brockton Marathon last October, and who was likewise the winner of the last B. A. A. Marathon race in Newton; Joseph Lee, the last Quincy Robertson of East Walpole, who has won all the Brockton events; Lee Bell will be the local favorite in the race.

Billy Clear of the South Boston A. C., who surprised all the knowing ones by coming back and winning the three-mile race at Oak Island on August 20, 1910; A. G. Horne of the North Dorchester A. A., and John Cook, Jr., of the Brookline Gymnasium A. A., who have many fans in their events, are two old rivals who will run for all there is in it, and a close contest for championship honors. G. F. Kimball of Everett, who handled the three-mile race at the Holy Redeemer games at Connihalon Park on August 17, 1910.

BALL FANS ATTACK RAIDING SHERIFF

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 29.—Sheriff Lansing I. Platt would have been mobbed had it not been for the prompt action of a corps of police when surrounded him at Chadwick Park. There has been no Sunday games of professional baseball here since Governor Hughes issued an order that the first sheriff that refused to do his duty would be removed. Last week the plan was hit upon to sell ice cream on which was the sentence: "I favor Sunday baseball."

The sale was made by the Lotus Club, and the buying served as a guise for the advertised "exhibition" game, between the Albany and Binghamton State League teams. Over 2,000 fans assembled. When the first ball was pitched by the pitcher the sheriff arrested him and Manager Clark, who was behind the bat.

The sheriff then arrested the regular battery and two of the Binghamton players. At this juncture the spectators had become quite angry, and everybody swarmed on to the field. The sheriff was threatened, but the police managed to hold the menacing crowd back and get the sheriff off the grounds.

CHICAGO BOXER TO FIGHT IN THE EAST

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Jimmy Howard, a Chicago welterweight, will make his initial appearance before New York box ing fans at the Sharkey Athletic Club next Wednesday night. He will go on in the star bout, his opponent being "Fighting" Kennedy, the Harlem scrapper. They are matched for ten rounds, and if Manager Joey of Howard is true, Kennedy, who is one of the hardest men to beat because of his awkwardness, will have his hands full or all stages of the game. Howard has never been defeated. He had his first fight in this city a year ago, when at Albany two weeks ago, when he met Frank Mantell, and he gave the latter one of the worst drubbings of his career. He has also defeated Jimmy Clabby, a matching him with Kennedy. Hockley has put him up against a man who will bring out what there is in him as a fighter. Kennedy has beat Larry Temple and the "Dixie Kid."

HUESTON TO PLAY KEOUGH.

Jerome Keough of Rochester will defend his post cham tonship against Tom Hueston in New York next week. The pair will decide the championship on September 6, 7 and 8. They will play for 250 points.

Keough won the title from Hueston last Winter and since then he has defended it successfully against two claimants. If Hueston is confident he can defeat the present champion he has been practicing hard for the match.

The circulation of the AMERICAN is 200,000 more than its next highest competitor and 75,000 more than all the other evening papers of Boston combined.

STRAIGHT TIPS

FOR SPORT FANS

ALL FANS WILL BE SIZING UP THE comparative merits of Harry Lord and Bill Purrell playing against each other this afternoon at the Back Bay baseball park. Many will base that swap President Taylor made in third basemen by the way the two acquit themselves in this series with the White Sox. We like that new youngster a lot and hope he wins out, but can't forget that Harry Lord was the greatest ever when he wore a Red Sox uniform.

AND BY THE WAY, THERE IS SOMEthing coming to the White Sox who dared to clean up our team when they visited the Windy City last. It's only fair play that Percy Donovan should give Hugh Duffy the same kind of entertainment when the teams get on the surface. The way Jake Stahl is lamming the pill and with Tris Speaker due to get in the running the White Sox will look like threads by the time the three games are over.

YOU FELLOWS HAVE BEEN ASKING me a lot of questions. I'm going to ask one myself now. Chicago city officials tax the White Sox as worth $1,500, and the Cubs as worth $1,500. If the Boston board gets busy on that basis how much should they quote the Doves at?

WATCH THAT NEXT BOUT BEtween Lewis and Houck and you can get a good line on the latter's chances at the Armory A. A. Tuesday night. Looks like they put one over. Lewis let Houck get away with the first start. Jack he wasn't ready. Houck upset the fans' calculations by going on and winning. If they put the coming Houck and on the next scrap, they'd better cut Boston off their visiting list.

Straight Tips: What kind of support do the Braves receive in their home city? A game with the Phillies on Saturday drew a big attendance of only 3,000. Where would a comparable at home and lacked the patronage when the home team was losing, pray? It's contended that a major league would not allow a club to continue if the attendance received such support as he contended the Braves in Worcester.

That matter is up to the league itself. Some team has got to get poor support and it's generally the losers.

Straight Tips: There have been a constant rear of Matt Tilladay's absence from the Red Sox lineup. Where would Matt be if he had to get to Ty Cobb? Who is the best batsman of the pair? Some years ago they met in an open cross-country runs this Fall? Who was the leading man later when it was a regular season did he get? WM. H. CASTLE.

Send to Ty Cobb, care Detroit Baseball Club, Detroit, Mich. Hans Wagner was leading batsman for the past ten years. There will probably be a few open cross-country runs later when it will be announced.

Straight Tips: Just a few words to let you know what the railroad clerks think of your column and yourself. You are both O. K., and if you have any kicking you can't handle send them along up here. This is a straight tip for the wise ones, too.

R. & M. R. R. CLERK.

Thanks, don't need any help.

Straight Tips: I have order my wife the Boston champion in young Gaudette. He has cut up some in the ring, but I'll back Skeeter Bilsky and made the people get up and take notice when he beat Squibb. He is ready to meet any 118-pounder in the business for a side bet.

CHARLIE WOODS,
Manager Young Columbia A. C.
North Cambridge, Mass.

Thanks kid must be a regular Boston. I know where he can get a job if his teeth are that sharp. A friend of mine has a bunch of creditors he'd like to see "Eat up," and I guess I'll six Young Gaudette on 'em.

Straight Tips: Will you please decide the following bet? A bets that in a tie game the batsman is not credited with a sacrifice hit. Providence. BEN KNOWLES.

Tie games count except when game is played off.

Straight Tips: To decide a bet, please let us know who won the recent Jeffries-Johnson fight. Also did Jeffries ever meet a negro before. TWO BRISTOL FIGHT FANS.

Both.

What did you think of that? Fight fans! Perhaps they have got the newest yet up in that mountain village. For their benefit will have to come through with the information. Johnson won and Jeff did not have the luck with him he did with the other three colored fighters he stacked up with.

Straight Tips: I saw two different results for the Jersey City-Buffalo game August 29. Will you please print the right result? CHARLES KING.

Waterbury.

Buffalo, 3; Jersey City, 2; Buffalo, 4; Jersey City, 3.

Straight Tips: I would like to ask you who gets the credit of a victory in which two of the pitchers work? Game Aug. 29, Providence vs. Boston. Score: Providence, 5; Boston, 4. Long for 7 innings, Cullen 1 inning, Cicotte and Wood the rest. Long was losing pitcher, Providence had a major league record. Not allowed a club to continue. Also, Long pitched his record said support as he contended the Browns in Worcester.

Joe Wood gets the credit.

Straight Tips: Please tell me where Jack McAuliffe was born. Sorry I put you in the bother of answering twice, as your tragedy was a hit. By the way, how is it that John L. Sullivan wasn't champion of the world? Didn't he lick Charley Mitchell for the title?

McAULIFFE.
New Bedford.

McAuliffe was born in 1866, in Ireland. John L. fought a draw with Mitchell.

Straight Tips: Please settle this bet: Did Chief Bender or Walter Johnson pitch against McGraw's management?

JAMES T. SKINNER.
Providence.

He played for New York but not under McGraw.

Straight Tips: Please inform me through your column the highest score made by a New England club for the week of Aug. 8; the highest score made for the week of Aug. 15. Oblige a fan. W. M.

LARNED IS NOT TO QUIT TENNIS

THE NEWPORT CASINO, Aug. 27.—William A. Larned, who has just won the national tennis championship for the sixth consecutive year, is not to retire from the tennis game until he has met defeat in a national tournament.

This statement was authoritatively made here to-day, to combat the report that the champion would not again defend the title. Close friends of Larned to-day asserted emphatically that the king of American players will be in the game until his laurels are wrested from him.

Through his brilliant work on the courts in the past half dozen seasons, Larned has amassed two magnificent trophy cups, each of which came to him as champion for three years in succession. His friends claim he has the ability to go out after a third. Another argument they urged to-day was that Larned believes the highest standard of the sport should be maintained.

Though he sticks on feather in his cap by claiming to be the best player in the country, Larned is considered the proper thing for him to do is to wait until some better player than himself rises to defeat him with the racquet.

Larned's work has been simply wonderful, considering the time he has been actively engaged in tennis playing. Future champions will have to work hard and long before they hope to maintain his splendid tactics of the past seven seasons. He is forty-two years old.

The work of Thomas C. Bundy, the sunny Californian, in the six-mile final for the championship has brought much praise to his direction. Bundy is one of the West's star players, in the same high class with McLoughlin and Long, youngsters whose style has made the East sit up and take notice.

The tourney just finished is regarded as one of the most successful ever held at Newport. The excellent management of Dr. James Dwight, his officers and executive committee, helped greatly to ensure success from start to finish. Dr. Dwight has good reason to feel satisfied with the tournament which wound up this week.

BILL CLANCY RELEASED.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 29.—Manager Dunn decided the ax to-day and Bill Clancy's head was lopped off, the Oriole first baseman being given his unconditional release. Schmidt will cover first base throughout the remainder of the season.

FOOTBALL STARS HAVE MADE GOOD IN BUSINESS

Football players picked by Walter Camp as the eleven greatest exponents of gridiron sport in the twenty years' history of the present American game almost without exception have risen to places of prominence and respect in the business and commercial world.

The occupations and lifework chosen by these men is a partial refutation of the arguments so often advanced by opponents of college athletics that the sacrifice of time necessary to attain success in the strenuous competition of American college sports unfits young men for a life of usefulness thereafter. Supporters of athletics, and football in particular, have always maintained that the discipline and endurance of strict training rules developed of gridiron players is an excellent preparation for the tasks to follow in the outside world.

Players Now in Business.

Appended is a summary of the present occupations of the eleven men named by Camp on the "all-time all-America" football team:

Frank A. Hinkey, end—Yale captain of 1894-5. Engaged in mining in Iola, Kans., with Jim Rodgers, the Yale captain of 1895. Hinkey left the East three years ago because of ill health. He always refuses to spend three or four weeks with the Yale eleven each Fall.

Hamilton Fish, tackle—Harvard captain of 1909. Will be graduated in June and expects to enter business in New York.

A. W. Hoffstinger, guard—Republican leader in Minnesota. Barring the Republican party of that State two years ago for Taft, he is secretary and treasurer of the North Star Wholesale Shoe Company. He has been prominently in Republican politics in Minnesota for fifteen years.

Germany Schulz, center—Did not finish college work at Michigan. Lives with his parents at Fort Wayne, Ind. Has been employed as football coach.

T. Truxton Hare, guard—Member of the firm of Reilly, Hoague & Hare, of Philadelphia. Hare came from a family prominent socially, and married a daughter of a Philadelphia millionaire. At college he was noted for writing and lecturing in French. He is now writing a series of college stories in four volumes, entitled, "The Freshman," "The Sophomore," "The Junior," and "The Senior." They are supposed to deal with his own college career. He lives at Radnor, a suburb of Philadelphia.

John De Witt, tackle—Was graduating from Princeton in 1904. Now in New York City in brokerage business. He won the Yale game and championship for Princeton in the Fall of 1903 by kicking a goal from placement from the Harvard line in the last minute of play. Each year he helps whip the Tigers into shape during the last part of the season.

Thomas L. Shevlin, end—Yale captain in 1908. Assistant to his father, who is in the lumber business. Shevlin has been representing his father on the Pacific coast most of the time for the last three years.

Eckie in Newspaper Work.

Walter H. Eckersall, quarterback—After leaving the University of Chicago Eckersall became connected with the sporting department of the Chicago Tribune, specializing in football and athletics.

Harold H. Weeks, halfback—Stock broker in New York since leaving Columbia. He was left a fortune by his grandfather, some of which was lost in the failure of Thomas & Ryan, in which he was connected.

William Heston, halfback—Now engaged in the billiard business with William Donnelly, pitcher of the Tigers, in Detroit. Graduated from Michigan Law School in 1906, and practiced for three years in Detroit.

Fred Coy, fullback—Captain of Yale in 1909, and head coach for next season. He is still in college. Was one of the late Professor Edward G. Coy, who founded Hotchkiss School.

KANALY GETS MATCH.

★ Some Causes of Divorce ★

By DOROTHY DIX

Article No. 5—Divorce in America is increased by lack of comradeship between husband and wife

ANOTHER reason why so many marriages of the first couples become estranged is because they neither work together nor play together. In no other country do men and women lead such distinct lives, from each other, as in America; and in no other country is divorce so frequent. The two facts are more than a coincidence; they are cause and effect.

When the average man and woman get married, the cream of their existence may be said to part almost at the church door. The bridegroom takes his bride to the home he has provided for her, and then he plunges back into his business with renewed ardor. He works at high tension all day, and when he returns to the domestic hearth at night, he is tired in mind and body and wants to do nothing but rest. He doesn't feel like dressing himself to go out to any sort of amusement, or have energy enough to make himself entertaining and agreeable.

He doesn't even want to talk about his business, and when his wife questions him about the doings of the day he answers her in a fog that is apt to hurt her feelings, if she is sensitive, and, as why cite, gives her to understand that he resents her curiosity. This isn't because he has anything to hide, but simply because he is dead weary with the stress of the day.

A Business Man Explains

A very successful business man once put the matter to me this way: "I don't talk to my wife about my business," he said, "because her very ability to bear the strain under which I work, depends upon my resting and getting my mind off of my work. If, when I go home, I am to speak of the time thrashing out every problem, recalling every annoyance and reliving every anxiety of the day, as I would if I told my wife all about it, why, I would be in a sanitarium with nervous prostration in six months. What I want to do is to drop everything, and just rest until time to go back to my office the next day."

Undoubtedly most other men feel that the same way, and in this way the majority of wives are entirely shut out of their husbands' business lives. They do not know how much their husbands make, what investments they have, what problems are engaging their attention, what hopes or fears fill their minds. When they by is amiable and genial, wife prognosticates from the symptoms that loathsome is good, and when he comes home at night grumpy and cross, and kicks the cat and spanks the baby and quarrels with the dinner, she surmises that business has been bad; but she has no way of knowing, for she is not in touch with the biggest part of his life.

Divorces Among the Rich.

Curiously enough, the most common prey to the loss his wife sees of him and the more danger there is to their domestic happiness. And by far the greater number of divorces occur among the rich. This is not because divorce is, like the automobile, a luxury of the wealthy, but because the men who make money get so absorbed in their big schemes that they have no time or thought to give to their wives. They become mere money-making machines, from which the woman who has married a real live, warm, palpitating human being finds the cold steel cash register.

Of course, it is every man's idea that when he marries a woman and sets her down in a comfortable home she will be "all right." He pictures her as spending her days serenely embroidering silk petticoats at six o'clock from business, and that she wants no livelier amusement of an evening than just to sit up opposite him and watch him read the paper.

Unhappily for the peace of the fireside, things don't happen this way in real life. A woman must have occupation and diversion, as well as a man, and when the wife realizes that her husband does not share his with her, she starts out to find some for herself. She dolls herself up in unbelting her thumbs and counting the hours until his return.

Then it happens that the wife's interest and the husband's become social and club interests, and their amusements become separated. They know different sets of people—one might almost say that they move in different circles of society—and, in this way, eventually almost become strangers to each other.

The man is all business. The wife is entirely social and art clubs. He detests himself in a dress suit and she finds it a miserable bother to bother clothes and fashion. He hates to go out when evening and she can't bear the thought of staying at home. So they are divided in their tastes, and if they are rich enough not to be obliged to economize they have no object in common, who are all elevated but as can be accurately themselves by citing the loneliness that is going to the married, and the quarrels and widens between the two whose lives only touch at two or three points.

As a proof of this, I may quote the official penalty of conversation carried on by the average married couple. They have literally nothing to talk about to each other about except the children and the bills, and if they are rich enough not to be able to quarrel over the bills, and have no children, they are reduced to silence and yawning in each other's faces.

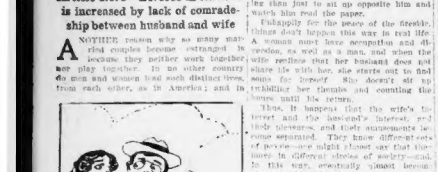
Is it any wonder that, under any conditions, love languishes and dies of starvation? Or need we marvel that the marriage tie breaks, so easily and so often, and that neither husband nor wife has much compunction about breaking it?

I believe the most deadly blow that could be dealt the divorce evil would be for husbands and wives to realize, at the very beginning of their married life, that the most important thing they could do would be to cultivate comradeship, and to make up their minds to share their every hobbies, their pleasures, their very thoughts, together. In that case, alone, can they secure a community of interest that is the realization of what marriage was meant to be.

Cultivate Comradeship

Men excuse themselves by saying they work so hard for the sake of their families, that they have not the time to devote to entertaining their wives or go about with them; but it would be a fine investment for the domestic happiness for any husband to give his wife less money and more of himself. Better a two weeks' vacation in a country farm house, together, than a luxurious trip to Europe or Newport, while the husband toils in his counting room.

Men and women must work together, and play together, if they are to remain together, and if there were more husbands and partners at the suffrage meeting, and more wives on the golf course, we should have fewer divorces.



More wives with their husbands at golf would mean fewer divorces

Do You Wear a Hobble Skirt?

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DO you wear a "hobble" skirt?

If you do you had better stand in front of a full length mirror some day and study your walk.

If you are fat you will waddle.

If you are thin you will hop.

There is no such thing as a natural walk in a hobble skirt.

From time to time we women lose our heads and follow some ridiculous and gruesome fashion, but it has been left for the hobble skirt to put the finishing touch to our idiocy in that direction.

The other day I watched a woman in a hobble skirt try to board a ferry. She hopped, she waddled, she scuffled and she looked supremely ridiculous and she missed the boat. I was mean enough to be glad of it.

"By love," said a man who was standing at the stern of the boat, "isn't that the limit; if women only knew how ugly they look in those skirts they wouldn't wear them."

The fashion will, of course, be copied right and the skirts will be made up in cheap materials.

Then will come the temptation to the girl with small means. She will long for a hobble skirt and will spend her hard-earned money on a garment that will be out of fashion in three months.

There will not be enough material in it to make over in another style and she will have an old-fashioned skirt on hand.

Its Greatest Drawback

But the most important drawback to the hobble skirt is not its lack of beauty, but its immodesty. No tight-fitting garment of that kind is modest or ladylike.

You do not find the really well-dressed women wearing them. The woman who dresses well does not care to see a hundred other gowns exactly like hers during an afternoon walk.

If you walk up Broadway or Fifth avenue these days every second woman you meet is struggling along handicapped by a hobble skirt.

But if you walk into the Casino at Newport, where the best-dressed women in the world are to be seen, you will not see the hobble; those women know better.

Within a few weeks the shops will be full of Fall displays.

You will begin to feel that you must save your money to buy your Winter outfit.

That's a good idea. Save all you can and don't spend all you save, but do spend that little wisely.

The wise woman buys a becoming suit, rather than a stylish one. Other women may notice the style of your clothes, but men will notice the becomingness of them.

When a man compliments you on your new hat you may know he thinks you look pretty in it. But a woman looks at the hat, not at you.

Men Object to This Freak

That's the truth, my sisters, believe it or not as you will.

I have not heard one man speak favorably of the hobble skirt; they all make fun of it.

Some day I'm going to ask the editors and artists of this paper to give me an idea of the kind of dress things they admire, and the artists to make some pictures. There will be some wild and fraudulent pointers on fashion, but also some good ones, of common sense.

Then I'll let you into the secret, and if it fit, and tell the women they like to avoid it.

Men object to this freak of woman's fashion—the hobble skirt

you care to follow their suggestions you may.

Perhaps Miss Brinkley will make some pictures showing how women like to dress.

There will be fat ladies and thin ladies and middling ladies, so we'll all be in it.

To-day's Best Story

MRS. CARRIE CHAPMAN CATT, the famous suffragette, speaking at a recent unbirthday party at a woman's club, said it reminded her, in its delicacy, of the story of a Hixon man.

"This man got married, and, after several years had elapsed, his wife said to him one night: 'John, you do not speak as affectionately to me as you used to when we were first married. I fear you no longer love me.'

"'Vowed to love you?' growled the man. 'There you go again. Why, I love you more than life itself. Now shut up and let me read the paper.'"

Laura Jean Libbey, Love Expert, Says:

Men Do Not Die of Broken Hearts. They Forget—Then Love Again

By LAURA JEAN LIBBEY

"Love is of man's life a thing apart,
'Tis woman's whole existence."

MAN is more philosophical by nature than woman, and never allows himself to meet, unflinchingly, the inevitable, whether it be loss of business, health or, harder still, the pain—loss of love.

Women give themselves up to a hideous dream; it is supposed in their thoughts, by day and by night. Men forget love's existence in the wider and more luxurious cares, and perplexities, which engross their thoughts; their thoughts returning to the object of their affection after the worry of work is over. This very routine of man's life gives him the power of drawing his thoughts away from the object of affection elsewhere, at a crisis, and is a safety valve to the pent-up, agonizing heart emotions.

Man can love as deeply, tenderly and truly as woman; but when love fades out of his life and heart, he looks about for strenuous occupation to fill the void that shall give him no time to think, to regret, or yearn for a touch of a hand, or a like that thrills one to the bone, and which gives the world heaven for him, and life worth living.

Men Seldom Give—Die for Love

It is this yearning that cuts like a sword into the heart of the unresisting its suffering—that crumbles the strongest man.

Women often die from broken hearts, but men always give up sweet life for love.

Even widowers whose grief seems so profound, have found that their heartstrings have been severed deeply, but only that they have held full possession of their manhood, and even a third time—considered that such a trivial thing as love was completed.

In fact, I believe their capacity to be like the dear old singer of Broadway—always ready to hold more.

I remember having heard that widowers—also out of the number—who had lost their young baby. The first six months he sees no men without a wife, because she will go to look around, and it is hard to keep him single around housekeepers.

In this not reasonable proof for the considering that men, as a rule, do not die of broken hearts?

When such cases do occur, the victim is usually in his early youth, with plenty of time to wait for the right one, now and his life is. Travel from shore to shore does not bring him across the ocean one of his thoughts travel with him—unbearable company. Such a youth—one out of ten thousand—might surrender life upon the altar of love, dying of a broken heart.

A hard-hearted physician—grown old viewing life's friendliness—would say on his diagnosis as follows: Death resulted from a lack of blood, which is the vitality that sees so much time for romancing and idealizing.

This brings us to another point of view. Men over forty seldom, or never, die of broken hearts. Why? Because they have the time THIS age has been reached, the heart has grown accustomed—inured to taking things as they go—love, life, loss of every description.

They have measured the passage of the years, not by their joys, but by their sorrows, and defeats; and their heroic methods of conquering them. Their hearts have not broken, though illusions have been torn from them, and they have been brought face to face with the bitter truth, life is unsatisfying, youth a delusion, and life one a struggle and old age must be a burden and a regret.

There is no heart so desolate but that love may knock again at its portals and waken it to new, glad life—even as a tiny spring bloom and bud a second time—until the dream of homelife and a loving mate become a reality.

Women shut their eyes to this sweet consolation; but men grasp at it, knowing the only balm for a lonely heart is—love. Women hold to their ideals. With a faith which never falters they believe:

"A heart that has truly loved, never forgets,
But as truly loves on to the close,
As the sunflower turns on her god, when he sets,
The same look that she gave when he rose."

Men do not give way to disappointments; consequently they hold their hearts in check with a strong will power which women admire and wonder over, but seldom attain.

If love goes wrong with a man, he sets about to forget it. The first wrench of his heart is quite enough for him; he does not give himself up to dreaming, for he knows that in fatal to his peace of mind. He forces his thoughts upon anything, everything else than his grief; he struggles and wins in the brave effort to put it from him, and looks about for another object upon which to bestow his affections—an appreciative heart to whom he will be king.

Life takes on a new, sweet brightness; the strained heart throbs again, and the world takes on a roseate hue. Sympathy, companionship and love have driven out loneliness and heart hunger.

No, men do NOT die of broken hearts. God has given them a wiser, better understanding. They may kneel again, and get again, before love's altar, ere a love cure is complete.

WHO is the strong? Not he who puts to test,
His shows with the strong and proves the best;
But he who dwells where weaklings congregate,
And never lets his splendid strength abate.

Who is the good? Not he who walks each day
With moral men along the high, clean way;
But one who jostles gilded sin and shame,
Yet will not sell his honor or his name.

Who is the wise? Not he who from the start
With Wisdom's followers has taken part;
But he who looks in Folly's tempting eyes,
And turns away, perceiving her disguise.

Who is serene? Not he who flees his kind,
Some mountain fastness, or some cave to find;
But he who in the city's noisest scene,
Keeps calm within—he only is serene.

Alias Jimmy Valentine

By JOHN A. MOROSO

Copyright, 1910, by American-Journal-Examiner

Synopsis.

JIMMY Valentine, the most remarkable safe-blower of all time, who opens safes merely by the sensitiveness of his finger ends, has succeeded in robbing the strong vault of the Goose National Bank.

His and his pal, Mike Dalton, get away to Rutts with $25,000, and double back on their tracks to New York. In the Pullman section which they hired, they divide the swag. Dalton, beastly drunk, attempts to effect a getaway, but is ruling alone in the respectable compartment. A terrific struggle ensues, in which Jimmy dies on the end of the pal and a bank section through the window.

Cotton, before he died, tells of the robbery and accuses Valentine, who is run down and caught in New York, by Doyle, the relentless hound of the detective force.

Jimmy is convicted and sentenced to ten years in Rutts with $25,000, and double that on fines, in breaking another safe at Springfield, Mass., and it is fervent wish on his part that he does not get to work.

Doyle visits Sing Sing to try and force Billy Amy, who is a stool pigeon of Red Jessup and Bonner, to get Valentine to work on the safe. Bill refuses and is tortured by Doyle. Amy finally consents, and Jimmy is sent to Rutts.

The same day the prison is visited by an inventor who has perfected a wonderful look. It is to be tested.

CHAPTER XII (Continued)

"YOU say it as if you wanted one to believe that it was the Gates of Hell Society," Doyle commented.

"A society of women banded together to rescue the fallen and release the innocent from prisons."

Handler read from the Gates of Hell Society."

"Why don't you refuse to see them?" asked Doyle.

"And let them squawk in the news papers?" commanded the warden. "Not me. As long as I can con them along they won't yelp."

"Some of that crowd for me," muttered Doyle, rising. "I'm going to take a walk."

He left the room, and as he did so the clock tipped off his desk to one important thing already finished.

The Lieutenant-Governor

"They have Lieutenant-Governor Fay with them," the clerk whispered. "He and his sister, Miss Rose Lane, are with the society delegation."

"Oh!" exclaimed Handler. "Show them in right away."

In a moment he was all smiles and bows as Lieutenant-Governor Fay presented to one with a tremendous political pull as Captain Handler, secretary of criminal investigations.

Fay's niece, Rose Lane, and the delegates from the society, Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Webster, entered the room.

Mrs. Webster, a fat busybody woman, was loudly protesting to Handler's courtesy.

"Mr. Handler," she said, "we bring today a famous humanitarian, Lieutenant-Governor Fay."

Fay bowed to the exalted personage.

"Glad to meet you," said the Lieutenant-Governor.

"And I am honored," said Handler. "I had the pleasure of voting for you."

"Indeed, and you a Democrat!" asked Fay.

"Democrats elected you, sir," Handler answered, and then he told himself softly that he had slipped that over very neatly for an impromptu piece of "con" work.

Mrs. Moore explained that she and Mrs. Webster had come to request that upon prison be not forced to make confessions, while prisoners, so that new cases would be worked up against them before they had taken their punishment for their old offenses.

"Why, madam," replied Handler, "you have only told us, but——" began both delegates from the society.

"Ladies, please," Handler themselves clear, Mr. Handler," put in the Lieutenant-Governor, "and that they have evidence that a man, who was serving two years, did make a confession that was used against him as soon as he got out."

"Exactly," said the kind, retarded Handler. "I can't be held responsible for any detective tests done here."

"But why do they tell?" persisted Mrs. Webster. "Why are confessions forced from them?"

Handler protested that he was not a humanitarian, or a detective, but merely a prison official with a lot of criminals to look after.

"Then men don't want to live straight," he told his guests, "in the first place they are lazy, and in the second, insane."

"Insane" gasped the ladies.

"Why, I had a man once who does something the law forbids—does it when—over the opportunity offers, without a thought that he does it. Just for the love of it."

"An artist," suggested Mrs. Webster.

"To me they are insane," Handler repeated.

"Exactly what do your means by insane?" asked Fay.

"Well, just to convince these ladies and gentlemen," said Handler, "I'll take a little time and show you by the clock mechanism."

Handler turned to his clerk.

"Smith, bring Billy Amy here," he ordered.

CHAPTER XIII.

ROSE LANE had come from Illinois to spend a Winter with her uncle and aunt, the Lieutenant-Governor and his wife, at Rutts. She had finished her education, and was a picture of lovely and intelligent young womanhood. When the Gates of Hope Society had asked her aid in the task of reforming the unfortunate, she had asked to be taken along with him.

Rose, a graduate of the John Hill, had never forget my experience with my husband, and the splendid young hero who saved me when I was in great danger on the train coming from Chicago. Then I read in the papers after I told you of the heroism that the man who was buried through the car window by my defense had died of decline in the prison. Don't know I shall be interested in Sing Sing prison work."

So Rose Lane was to finish up her course in philanthropy by a visit to the big East with a glance into the sombre pastile of the Hudson, where were cooped the outcasts of humanity. It was in this spirit that Rose, who be one of the party of guests at Sing Sing when the Warden's new model factory of criminal economy, and his strange mechanism, began with Handler's forger.

Raising the Check.

Rose watched the shifty, small-eyed convict on the witness stand, while Handler was fascinating to her.

"Governor," said Handler, "please lend me a check for five dollars?"

Fay did as requested, and Handler put the check on his desk.

"Billy," he said quietly, to the convict, "see what you can do with this."

Billy grinned as a token that he was delighted and went down with the party.

He tried several pens and at last found a pen in fine condition for the job.

As Handler chatted with the party Billy toiled away in a labor of love; for there was nothing in the task for him, save the pleasure of doing an artistic piece of work. Finally he looked up with a smile of satisfaction.

Handler took the check and gave it to the Lieutenant-Governor.

"Fifty thousand dollars!" gasped Fay.

Not a scratch showed on the check and the clumsy writing was identical with that which had drawn the check five dollars.

"That's all, Blinky," said Handler, "I guess I could pass it, too," was Blinky's boast as he departed.

"Now that is how he got here," explained Handler. "I have him working on the prison books, also, and he could get a lot the temptation to raise the prison checks, although he would not have gained a cent by it."

"The man is mad," agreed Fay.

"In the eyes of a scientist waiting to have a new lock tested," Handler informed the Lieutenant-Governor, "all people are mad to be tested now, Smith, bring 'Dick the Hat' here."

Blinkendolfenach also was brought to the warden's room.

"Dick the Hat" bowed sheepishly to the party.

Testing the Inventor's Lock.

"You will try my lock, yes?" asked the inventor eagerly.

"Right now," replied Handler. "Here, Dick, see what you can do with this. The old gent here says it can't be opened without his key."

"Could you cop a little pin from one of the ladies?" asked Dick.

Rose dre'd a pin from her brown hair and gave it to the little fellow.

The old inventor watched the convict with the pin of Rose in his hand.

Dick placed the lock on the desk and carefully inserted the pin. He bent down the pin in the keyhole, and gave a little grunting groan.

He looked up at Handler with an amused twinkle in his eyes.

He drew out the pin and bent it slightly. Again he inserted the pin and for fifteen minutes worked it to right and left and up and down. Finally he looked up at the pin and then, with a twist, the lock flew open.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS

STATE ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

FIRM TONE IN STOCK MARKET

Considering the adverse influences against which the bull party in stocks labored last week, the list closed remarkably firm. In fact, its strength suggests the possibility that the bears have overdone things. The disposition of stocks from commission houses at a time when the public has refused to buy can mean only one thing—the big people have taken them. When that happens it is always possible to force a substantial rally, and such a thing seems just now to be in the air.

$ $ $

Whether this rally will be of five or twenty points depends entirely upon politics and the corn crop. Whether any one should investigate the political situation of such a rally is entirely a personal question, but persons who have studied finance in its wide aspects hold the opinion that there is no cost else for permanent investments, although some very handsome profits might be made on the long side of the market.

$ $ $

The peculiar speeches made by Theodore Roosevelt last week have made Wall Street decide that he is no longer dangerous.

$ $ $

State Street has heaved itself for at least two good sneers in the next three weeks. One will come when the Maine election is held on September 10th; the other day thus: Just come and see how much corn we have on hand," is the cry of the corn crop will be out of danger after the middle of September, but until that time one-third or if it be exposed to early frost. The crop of 2,900,000,000 bushels is expected now.

$ $ $

Two ugly facts stick out in the picture of optimism. Savings banks say that their depositors are withdrawing money for living expenses and brokers report heavy and mysterious selling of stocks by persons that do not operate for professional traders. The first statement means that the great public is losing its saving power and the second that the apparently large error in terest in the market is not a real one.

$ $ $

It looks as though stocks were being borrowed and sold by persons who wish to conceal the fact as long as possible and who will deliver their own certificates only when Brighthope has been squeezed. On the other hand, there have been millions of dollars' worth of stocks taken out of the market and paid for in full in the last two weeks by banking houses of importance.

$ $ $

Western banks are forcing farmers to market their wheat early, and Spring and Summer crops are being hurried to market in greater volume than ever before. This is relieving the banks rapidly, and the money situation is so strong that commercial bills are being bought in the banks freely, which is encouraging business.

$ $ $

Naturally, the first stream of business to show improvement is that part of the steel trade having to do directly with farmers. The Western branches of the trade are in boss, and the International Harvester Company is getting a line like that which a rush of wheat to market is forcing on every business in the country. It is compelling them to spend more money for equipment and mills. This something of a subsidiary boom is getting under way.

$ $ $

Basic conditions are such that, while the next two or three months may appear very bright, it is hardwise to look too far ahead, as must be done when making long-time investments. The United States has 91,000,000 people to feed with harvests no greater than those of last year. Europe has had its crops generally, some estimates of the loss in France alone running as high as $500,000,000. This condition holds out no promise for a lower cost of living, and the public already excited over the tariff, more disposed for a reduction of the latter than it be expected. This, naturally, will interrupt business.

$ $ $

It can be said on the highest possible authority that plans for the great billion dollar copper merger have not been abandoned. The groundwork is being prepared and as soon as legislation can be put through at Washington the new project will make its appearance. Therefore, the outlook for copper is one of the prosperity from market in both stocks and metal, subject, of course, to general conditions that may influence all business.

$ $ $

The death of President Cole of the National Lead Company is expected to result in the retirement within a year or two of the preferred stock of the Lead Trust, a course which the late Mr. Cole proposed the last time. Reduction of the dividend on the common will follow, and in a very strong financial condition, and some manifest favoritism for its shareholders is confidently expected.

$ $ $

Just what tasks the Interstate Commerce Commission rate investigation will assume is yet undetermined. The commission has, however, exhaustated the question of capitalization for a further entry into the consideration of the reasonableness of the proposed rate advance on the fact that one road is over-capitalized is not one that the general public will be advanced in order to enable that road to pay dividends on the outstanding capital.

Changing Newfoundland Forests Into British Thought

That's the Work of Lord Northcliffe, Now Making His Annual Visit to America

Copyright, 1910, by American-Journal-Examiner

The owner and editor of all the Harmsworth papers—Lord Northcliffe—has arrived in this country.

This man is one of the greatest forces at work in the world.

You cannot know much about a man by merely looking at him—Northcliffe is a cheerful, always calm and incisive individual, with a light, clear blue eye, a big head, wide shoulders—a happy combination of John Bull and Napoleon Bonaparte.

To understand a man you must understand his work. To be able to know Northcliffe you must see at a glance great, bleak forests in the north of this continent, and at the same time you must see all of the mixed types and peoples that make up the British Empire.

Hundreds of millions of human beings—white, yellow and black—are ruled by British law.

NORTHCLIFFE FEEDS THESE TREES IN THE SHAPE OF NEWSPAPERS TO THE MILLIONS OF BRITISH MINDS.

British law controls hundreds of millions of human beings. British thought controls British law. Northcliffe, more than any man living, CONTROLS AND INFLUENCES BRITISH THOUGHT.

Northcliffe is the owner and editor of the London Times, the most dignified paper in Christendom.

What is more important, he is the owner of the London Mail, which is read by millions—millions that control the future of Great Britain.

He is the owner of nearly a hundred other newspapers and magazines.

Northcliffe has done, and is doing, more than any fifty, more than any thousand, other Englishmen TO MAKE ENGLAND THINK.

Northcliffe is a benefactor of the human race because his work is stirring up constantly, in millions of human minds, the intellectual activity which alone causes human progress.

Northcliffe publishes his own opinions, tells the people what HE thinks, what the ablest men in the countries of the world think.

What is more important, he spends millions in painstaking, world-wide collection of news which enables his many millions of readers TO THINK ACCURATELY AND INTELLIGENTLY FOR THEMSELVES.

Northcliffe is no mental dictator. He does not say to the British Empire, "You shall think as I think," but he does say to them daily, with the tongue of millions of printed pages:

"You SHALL think." And, thanks to Northcliffe's work, to-day the people of Great Britain, for the first time in their history, DO THINK AS A NATION—from the King and the Prime Minister down to the man underground in the coal mine.

They all get the same news every day, THEY GET IT FROM NORTHCLIFFE, who adjusts his reading matter to the varied British minds, as a doctor adjusts food to varied infantile stomachs.

Every man in England able to think is wound up regularly by Northcliffe, as a jeweller winds his clocks.

AND THE RESULTS ARE SHOWING.

Some of these results Northcliffe did not plan, some of them he probably doesn't like—for he has worked up radical thought that goes far beyond his well-balanced conservatism.

He knows that the only power is thought. He has harnessed up the British mind, as our scientists harnessed Niagara. Some people will be shocked by the current occasionally, but the world is made more powerful and wealthier by it.

Honor to the small man who made the two blades of grass grow where there was only one.

Honor and welcome to Northcliffe, who makes a million British thoughts grow WHERE THERE WERE NOT ANY.

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

THE PILGRIMS' STANDARDS

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

The dedication of the monument at Provincetown to the memory of the Pilgrims was a most appropriate and worthy act, and the monument is most fitting memorial to a band of noble and devoted Englishmen. But, Mr. Editor, what a sad commentary on the condition of the country to-day when viewed in the light of the past. It is true we have progressed materially beyond our most sanguine expectations, but the ideals which the forefathers held have been lost, and I fear swallowed up in the base commercialism, corruption and greed as it exists to-day.

Democracy exists in name, but falls muchinks short of the true ideal. If there had been no revolt in colonial days, it would be a study for the philosophic observer to reflect upon what would be the condition of society to-day, allowing, of course, for the changes that have taken place in the world's political and social condition.

The writer is under the impression the standard as regards political morality and justice would be higher than it is at present, and the democratic spirit more prominently manifested in our elective procedure. Caucus, for instance, is far more democratic in its institutions than we are, and the government more directly responsible to the people.

DRIVE OUT SOCIAL EVILS

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

If I were the wealthiest and most influential man living I would try to drive out the social evils according to the following plan:

1. Help to the old generation.

1. Offer my full care to needy men and women (single or married) sixty-five years old and over; also to all handicapped any way, if they could not have to live on a farm far away from the cities.

2. Help to the young generation.

1. And found all over the country and financially aid a society of mothers for the sole purpose of controlling young girls in strange cities. The mothers should have the power to arrest any girl under twenty-five years of age. These mothers would be on duty mostly at night. Besides society, they would get a free flat and two or three families would have to live in the same house so that children whose mothers were away could be taken care of.

2. For young people who intended to marry, but who were poor, I would furnish a home. They would have to pay the cost of it without interest, but they would not be pressed for payments if their excuses were trustworthy. The money thus collected would go for the same purpose for other young people.

3. Public places, such as vaudeville shows, ballrooms and moving picture theatres, would be under the supervision of the society of mothers. In order to refer to the fathers to control their sons, I would see that a law was passed under which the father would be put in jail for the offences of a boy for sixteen years. After sixteen, the boy would go to school, but would have to return to the reformatory right after schooltime. If the fathers were poor, his family would be taken care of. No newsboys would be seen in saloons stealing free lunch.

4. Inventors would be backed financially.

5. No child would be allowed to play on the streets, but the projected would have to build a high fence around every roof and those children could enjoy the fresh air.

I am for the coming generation.

By lectures and illustrations I would try to explain to poor people that a man is not an animal and therefore to have too many children is, for the man with a small earning capacity, a far greater offence than murder. SOMERVILLE.

WOULD HELP THE INSANE

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

In a recent issue you invite opinions from young Americans as to what they would deem the "Height of Affluence."

Of course, in order to do anything of importance in aiding humanity, one must be an accomplished man himself. That is, he must have acquired a sufficient sum for his own and family's subsistence. Then with the surplus he can aid humanity and there are various ways to do that, for instance:

If I had surplus wealth, I would spend it in search of the cause and cure of insanity.

Any one who will visit our asylums will be convinced of the necessity of such a research.

Then I would establish a home for young men who desire to lead clean and simple lives. I would have them learn the best of trades, and give those who desire it a chance to obtain a college education, permitting them to pay back, afterward, out of their salaries, for all expenditures.

I know of many young men who would be only too glad to grasp such an opportunity.

The future of our Republic lies in the hands of its Young America, and I say, let us train those hands and prepare them for the coming task.

If I could accomplish either undertaking I would reach the very Heights of Affluence. MARTIN DIAMOND.

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES OF The Dear Forties

By Winifred Black

I KNOW a woman who is miserable—absolutely miserable.

The first part of the Summer she had the blues; she was so bored at home, she said. So she went and had a lot of smart frocks made, bought some astonishing hats, and nobody dares guess how many pairs of fascinating shoes, and slippers, and pumps, and boots, and all the rest of the things that go with it.

And she went away—to be happy.

She went to the seashore, where there were a lot of gay people and where she could hear all the news, and where there was dancing, and automobile riding, and surf bathing, and tennis, and love-making, and gossiping, and jealousy, and all the rest of the things that go to make up a gay life at the gay seashore.

The woman I know came home two weeks before we expected her, and she was bluer than ever.

A friend of hers, who was with her, told me all about it.

"Yes," said the friend of hers, "her clothes were pretty, and she changed them three times a day, and she did her hair the very latest way, and she really is an expert swimmer, and one of the best tennis players I ever saw; but nobody went swimming with her, and the only person who asked her to play tennis was an elderly man with an invalid wife; and, somehow, she didn't dance much at the hops.

"Pretty? Yes, she's pretty enough; but she's out of the dancing and swimming and tennising age, and she won't admit it.

"Now, I had a glorious time. I took up with the prettiest little girl in the place, chaperoned her everywhere, and had the time of my life helping her out with her innocent little flirtations.

Poor Second Fiddle, what a mistake she is making! She's had her time at being the first violin. Why doesn't she laugh over her advancing years and get all the fun there is out of being forty-two?

Forty-two is a glorious age—the best age in the world if you'll only meet it with a friendly smile and not try to pretend you don't know a thing about anything further than thirty-five.

You don't have to worry about your clothes every minute when you are forty-two, and if he is five minutes late you aren't ready to swoon with apprehension every time an automobile toots toots to the door.

You can admire the reigning beauty, have fun with the reigning wit, compare ideas with the reigning wisdom and not be bothered to death with your own uneasy, self-consciousness all the time.

Come along, Dear Forty-two, dear, foolish, would-be friend, come along. Let's get the fun out of the situation as it really is, and not try to live over and over a dream that was gone five years ago.
